Omaha, Neb., September 18.—(AP)—Leveling an attack on the republican party and its opponent, Herbert Hoover, for the heart of the grain belt to open his speech making campaign for the presidency, declared tonight that he stood for the "principle" of the McNary-Haugen bill, twice vetoed by President Coolidge.

"What remains of the McNary-Haugen bill is a mere matter of method," the democratic nominee asserted in an address prepared for delivery in the auditorium here, "and I do not limit myself to the exact mechanics and method embodied in that bill."

Just before making this declaration, Governor Smith said, in his prepared text:

Favors Vetoed Bill.
"Various people have attempted to misrepresent and confuse my attitude with respect to the McNary-Haugen bill. I do not propose to leave the slightest doubt in anybody's mind on that subject."

"As I read the McNary-Haugen bill, its fundamental purpose is to establish an effective control of the sale of exportable surplus with the cost imposed upon the commodity benefited."

"For that principle the democratic platform squarely stands, and for that principle I squarely stand. Mr. Hoover stands squarely opposed to this principle by which the farmer could get the benefit of the tariff."

Expressing the view that "there is a clean-cut issue, which the farmers and voters of the country must decide," the New York governor reiterated that the details by which "this

KLAN FOR $500,000

Grand Dragon Forrest
Accused of Circulating
Letter Defaming Character of Plaintiff.

Charging defamation of character, W. F. Brandt, pre-convention supporter of Governor Alfred E. Smith for the democratic presidential nomination, Monday filed suit against the Ku Klux Klan and N. B. Forrest, its grand dragon, asking $500,000 damages.

In his petition, Brandt, a mortgage broker, accuses the klan of circulating through Forrest a letter in which the plaintiff is identified as "a German-Jew, who during the war is alleged to have been under surveillance as a German spy."

A copy of the letter addressed to klanmen and purported to be signed by Forrest is attached to Brandt's petition. It is dated April 23 of this year and invites attention to the then rapidly swelling sentiment in favor of the New York governor and alludes to an "anonymous advertisement" appearing in newspapers asking klanmen and former klanmen to learn the truth about Governor Smith by writing to a certain Atlanta postoffice box. Forrest, in his letter, named Brandt as the man who received and answered the letters addressed to this box.

Naturalized Citizen.
Brandt sets forth in his petition that he is not a Jew, declaring him- self a fully naturalized citizen and denies that he ever was under surveillance by governmental agents or accused of being a German spy.

"The plaintiff not only has been loyal to the United States but has never been suspected by the good citizens of Fulton county (in which county the plaintiff has resided for a number of years) of being other than a loyal and good citizen," the petition recites.

"The plaintiff turns loose a vitriolic attack on the klan, charging it with being un-American and not living up to the creeds it accuses others of violating."

"Plaintiff alleges that while the defendants, both the individual officer and the corporation, claim to be '100 per cent Americans' they do not follow either by precept or practice any parts of the constitution or laws of the United States except such as agree with the erroneous teachings and practices of the defendants," the petition alleges. "As an example of this practice and disregard of the principles of this government and of the fundamental law of the land as contained in the constitution of the United States, the said defendants refuse to recognize either in theory or by practice the right of a person born in a foreign country, though naturalized, to have the protection of the laws or to be citizens of the United States."

The plaintiff further charges that the klan "refuses to accede to or recognize the provisions of the constitution of the United States that no religious test shall ever be re-

Waycross Gets Brunt of

Rains in Millen; Train Wreck at Valdosta.

Waycross, Ga., September 18.—(Special)—Waycross early today was completely isolated from the outside world as a result of a terrific storm which swept the city last night, all lines of communications having been crippled and public utilities being practically powerless to render service.

Telephone and telegraph lines are down in every direction. Railroad movement is curtailed in many directions. Highways are impassable on a number of routes and it was impossible during the early hours of the morning to communicate in any way with the outside world. Efforts to pick up storm warnings by radio failed.

Rehabilitation is in process, however, and several lines of communication have been opened this afternoon though reports on the storm are meager.

Streets Are Flooded.

The storm broke in Waycross during the early part of last night, driving rains and flurries of wind sweeping over the city. Through the night the wind increased and torrential rains flooded the streets, periodical lulls coming in the downpour. Waycross this morning was storm-ridden. The streets of the city were littered with broken trees and debris and many trees were down, a number of giant oaks silent testimonials to the intensity of last night's storm, lying bare of their limbs. Waycross is widely known for her beautiful trees and the loss at the hands of the storm was a great and irreparable one.

During the early part of the night windows were blown from homes in many sections of the city, electric lights were down and telephone communication was cut off. The crash of white water bulls on the sidewalks of the uptown business district created a great deal of excitement and the business section soon was practically deserted.

So far as can be learned there were no personal injuries during the storm.

KIDNAPED YOUTH
RELEASED BY MEN

Chicago Boy Is Thrown From Car After Being Held Two Weeks for Huge Ransom.

Joliet, Ill., September 18.—(AP)—Billy Ranieri, 10-year-old boy kidnapped in Chicago nearly two weeks ago, was found near here tonight after his abductors had freed him from their custody a short time before.

The boy was unharmed except for one discolored eye which he said resulted from a blow one of the kidnapers struck him just before they released him.

He was found by a filling station attendant to whom the boy had gone after his four abductors had turned him loose from their automobile near Lockport.

The filling station man notified the sheriff at Joliet.

Billy said the four men made him get out of their car and told him to start walking until he came to a street car line where he would meet his father. They gave him $10. He started walking, he said, and continued until he arrived at the filling station where he told the man about being kidnapped. The attendant recognized the lad from his pictures in the papers and called the authorities. Chicago police and the boy's father, Frank Ranieri, were notified and left Chicago by automobile for the place.

Nominee Completes Hard
Trip in New Jersey;
Visits Score of Towns on Auto Journey.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, September 18.—(AP)—Turning from an appeal to New Jersey republican leaders to make the present political campaign one based on issues and not a duel of personalities, Herbert Hoover tonight arrived in Washington to await the time for his second sally into the country. No welcoming throng was at the station as in the case of his return from his California home.

The appeal, made in a speech made extemporaneously by the nominee at Newark, was coupled with a laudation of the virtues Hoover said that President Coolidge had brought into government. The nominee also spoke of the need of having only two major political parties and added that he would "leave it to you to remark what has happened to our political opponents, through lack of unity."

Moves to Elizabeth.

From Newark, the nominee moved quickly by automobile through Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Princeton and a dozen smaller places to Trenton, where he boarded his train to return to Washington.

He carried with him the memory of a great deal of the work done by the chamber within past years and stressed the fact that it was not a "booster" organization, devoted to sounding its own praises, but the business clearing house of Atlanta, intent upon building up the city, adding to its population and its business enterprises, and laying stress upon certain of its accomplishments.

LeCraw Outlines Objects.
Roy LeCraw, general chairman of the campaign, then took charge of the meeting, and outlined to his majors, captains and lieutenants the objects: To build up the membership from the present 2,200 to more than 20,000; and to demonstrate to important firms which are now members that they should increase their financial support of the Chamber of Commerce.

The inspirational address of the evening was delivered by Robert Strickland, Jr., vice president of the National bank, who spoke of the immense value of the work of the chamber of commerce.

"We folk in Atlanta do not hear a great deal of the chamber of commerce and its work," said Mr. Strickland, "for it is not a publicity seeking organization. It prefers to go after results, which are most often accomplished without a word of trumpet. Atlanta's chamber of commerce, I might say, is better known in Chicago or Cleveland than at home. But it is at work all the time, to keep Atlanta on the map, to see that the nation is informed about Atlanta, to capital to invest in Atlanta. It has frequently been said that Atlanta is the best advertised city in the United States. That can be credited directly to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce."

Behind City's Progress.

"The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is directly responsible for every civic movement of major importance in years. It has the power behind many movements for the upbuilding of the city for which it has asked and received no credit. Atlanta boasts many great citizens of the past, who have made their impress upon the history of the city, but if you will search the records you will find that they carried through their projects with the aid and prestige of the chamber of commerce, with which they were proud to be allied."

The chamber of commerce is a cross-section of the business of Atlanta.

Attacked by three young negroes as he entered a vacant house on Yonge street near Edgewood avenue late Tuesday afternoon, L. C. Matthews, of 553 Pierce street, was choked into insensibility and robbed of $300, according to police reports.

Matthews, who is employed by a real estate firm, had been sent to the street by his employer, who had received a request from the owner to place it on their rental list. He had just started to enter the building to inspect it when the three young negroes attacked him. When he recovered consciousness his assailants and the money were gone, he said. Detectives Taylor and Stevens were assigned to the case.

"Pep" Dinner Tuesday Night, Ready To Begin
Intensive Campaign.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce campaign for additional membership and support got off to a great start Tuesday night by a dinner meeting attended by 165 workers in the various divisions and directors of the chamber, and "pep" speeches by a dozen leaders in the drive, which will start this morning to continue for three days.

The dinner was held on the main floor of the Chamber of Commerce building, and each "general" of the six divisions headed a table filled with enthusiastic workers in the campaign. Territory and prospect cards were awarded every worker, who will start out today, determined to enroll every prospect on the list.

Milton Dargatz, Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting, which almost overflowed the main dining room. He spoke of the work done by the chamber within past years and stressed the fact that it was not a "booster" organization, devoted to sounding its own praises, but the business clearing house of Atlanta, intent upon building up the city, adding to its population and its business enterprises, and laying stress upon certain of its accomplishments.

Monument in Addition
To One of Lukeman.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Stone Mountain Monumental association has been called for 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce building by G. F. Willis, president, it became known Tuesday when all members of the board received notification.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss a proposed settlement of differences between Samuel H. Venable, representing the owners of the mountain, certain persons who have engaged payment of an appropriation to the association by Fulton county, and the association itself.

Wanted Borglum's Return.
Mr. Willis, in his statement to the directors, declares that after negotiations lasting two months Mr. Venable agreed to settlement of all differences provided Mr. Borglum, the original sculptor, to return to the undertaking.

In event that negotiations for the return of Mr. Borglum fail, Mr. Willis declares, Mr. Venable has positively stated that he will at once institute suit to recover that portion of Stone Mountain which he and others of his family decided to the association in 1916 for the purpose of completing the monument. Mr. Venable contends, says Mr. Willis, that certain conditions specified in this deed have not been met by the association and that the paper is therefore void.

"From the facts above stated," reads the communication to the directors, "you will perceive that the

M'DANIEL SLAYING WAS ACCIDENTAL,
FRED FAIR INSISTS

Case of Pressman, on Trial for Killing of Policeman, To Reach Jury
by Noon Today.

Based upon the contention that the fatal shooting of Officer J. E. McDaniel, on August 16, was accidental, the appeal of counsel for Fred Fair, stocky printing pressman, that defendant be sent to the penitentiary for involuntary manslaughter instead of to the chair for murder, will rest by noon today.

The defense Tuesday depended entirely upon cross-examination of state's witnesses and argument of counsel in the effort to avert the supreme penalty, not a single witness having been subpoenaed for Fair. In his statement to the jury, not made under oath, Fair claimed that he ran to Officer McDaniel for protection after shooting E. L. Griffin, brother-in-law of Mrs. Kitty Heath, whose alleged kidnapping started all the trouble, and that the gun went off accidentally when his hand brushed against McDaniel's leg.

To Reconvene Today.

Court adjourned at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, and will reconvene at 9 o'clock this morning. Attorney Len B. Guillebeau, defense counsel, has one hour and 40 minutes and the state has one hour and 15 minutes of argument remaining.

John Brewer, associate counsel for Fair, announced to the press, just prior to argument, that he has withdrawn from the case. "For purely personal reasons, I arrived at the decision during the trial of the Fair case that interests of all concerned would be best served by my withdrawal as associate counsel," Brewer said. "I no longer have any connection with the case."

EVIDENCE GROWS

Blood-Stained Axes, Auto
Spattered With Blood,
Bones Unearthed All
Point to Slaying.

Los Angeles, September 18.—(United News).—The bloody trail of the Northcott chicken farm, where an undetermined number of boys are believed to have been abused and slaughtered, grew plainer today.

Four blood-stained axes were in the hands of police as they investigated the story of Sanford Clark, Canadian lad, that Gordon Stewart Northcott, 21, had murdered at least four youths.

A fourth ax was found at the Los Angeles house occupied by George Cyrus Northcott, father of Gordon, and blood stains on the porch indicated the house as well as the farm near Corona had been the scene of murder.

Deputy District Attorney Quinn, of Riverside county, swore to a joint warrant charging Northcott and his mother, Mrs. Louise Northcott, with murder, and reports from Canada led to expectations that the pair would be arrested soon.

Young Northcott was described by officials as a veritable "ape boy." His body was said to be covered with thick hair, and during his school life he refused to participate in athletic events because of the necessity of disclosing the unusual growth that resembled fur, it was learned.

Besides a gun, of the same caliber as one used to slay a Mexican or Filipino youth, whose headless body was found on a road, and discovery of bones on the farm, police today found additional indications of murder, they announced.

An automobile, formerly owned by Northcott, was found in Ontario. The rear compartment was smeared with blood, as was a tire cover, police announced.

Jacksonville, Fla., September 18.—(AP)—The appalling extent of hurricane disaster dealt sections of the lower east coast and south central Florida assumed an ever widening scope late tonight as reports from the stricken area counted the known dead at more than 250 and estimated damage to property high in the millions.

With many persons reported missing, anticipations were that the total death toll would be much greater. Red Cross officials estimated that it would reach 400 in Palm Beach county, one of the hardest hit regions, alone.

The same source placed the damage at approximately $25,000,000, while other estimates reported by Senator Joe T. Robinson, the democratic vice presidential nominee, increased this figure to between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Greatest loss of life indicated in available reports occurred along the southeastern fringes of Lake Okecho-bee, where the equivalent of a tidal wave pushed up by the violent gale drowned many who were not crushed in the wreckage of their homes. It may be some time before the exact number of those who perished is known, relief workers expressing the opinion that many bodies still were concealed in the debris of smashed and flooded dwellings.

Scenes which escaped with their lives but lost all possessions were being administered to in makeshift refugee stations in half a dozen communities of the region, some of which were devastated to the extent that only a few buildings were left standing.

Similarly in the Palm Beaches area, where the hurricane was said to have wrought greater destruction than that of the Miami disaster in 1926, hundreds of homeless received the attention of relief workers. From virtually all unaffected portions of the state came appeals to appeals for food, clothing and other necessities.

National guardsmen moved into the stricken portions under orders of Governor Martin to render every assistance possible and aid local authorities in preventing looting. Officials of

JAX STORM LOSS LIGHT, SAYS MAYOR

Damage done by the hurricane in Jacksonville was greatly exaggerated by certain news correspondents, and actual losses in that city will approximate $10,000, with no casualties, according to a wire received by The Constitution Tuesday night from John T. Alsop, Jr., mayor of Jacksonville.

Early reports from Jacksonville indicated that the damage was great, and as a result a citizens' committee from that town requested that the mayor correct these impressions in telegrams to various papers.

The mayor's message says: "The only damage done throughout the entire city of Jacksonville by the storm was the uprooting of some trees in different parts of the city and breaking of a few plate-glass windows. No building at all was unroofed, and not a single individual in the city was hurt."

Mayor Alsop's wire also mentions the fact that the same citizens' committee which asked for the correction of certain statements made about the storm effects in Jacksonville is now raising funds for the alleviation of suffering in Florida towns that did suffer greatly. Of this, he says: "A large committee of our citizens, who have inspired this wire, are in session this morning raising funds to help out neighboring cities south of us, entirely unmindful that a storm has visited Jacksonville."

The mayor was joined in his message by the managers of the Florida Times-Union and the Jacksonville Journal, the full membership of the city commission, the president of the city council, the presidents and managers of the chamber of commerce and the Junior chamber, the presidents of three banks, the presidents of several organizations and several other citizens.

The mayor's version of the storm was substantiated and the appeal that the false impression be corrected was repeated in a wire received by The Constitution later Tuesday night from P. H. Harrison, president of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Harrison stated that the city experienced a 48-mile per hour wind and a 4-inch rainfall Monday, but property damage was slight, and there were no injuries.

WEST PALM BEACH BRANCH OF MATHER STORE IS DAMAGED

Local officials of the Mather Brothers Furniture company Tuesday received telegraphic advices from H. R. Wilburn, manager of the West Palm Beach branch, telling of the storm damage to the store.

The message was relayed through Miami, and stated that the store, warehouse and shed roofs were lifted from the walls, that four of the front windows were broken and a portion of the front wall swept away. Mr. Wilburn stated that he remained all night at the store Monday with the watchman to prevent looting of the place.

VICTIM OF FLORIDA STORM IS TREATED AT HOSPITAL HERE

Fleeing before the Florida hurricane, although injured, Mrs. Mary Gray, 54, of Chicago, with her two children, reached Atlanta Tuesday afternoon and applied at Grady hospital for treatment.

En route from Chicago to Miami the storm overtook the mother and her children at Titusville. Before the blow had reached its height they obtained passage in an auto bus and reached Jacksonville.

When the storm struck Jacksonville, although it caused comparative little property loss, Mrs. Gray was one of those injured. She was struck by a falling sign and was badly cut and bruised. The daughter suffered a blackened eye and the son a slight cut on his arm, both injuries caused by flying debris.

The only damage done throughout the entire city of Jacksonville by the storm was the uprooting of some trees in different parts of the city and breaking of a few plate-glass windows. No building at all was unroofed, and not a single individual in the city was hurt."

Mayor Alsop's wire also mentions the fact that the same citizens' committee which asked for the correction of certain statements made about the storm effects in Jacksonville is now raising funds for the alleviation of suffering in Florida towns that did suffer greatly. Of this, he says: "A large committee of our citizens, who have inspired this wire, are in session this morning raising funds to help out neighboring cities south of us, entirely unmindful that a storm has visited Jacksonville."

The mayor was joined in his message by the managers of the Florida Times-Union and the Jacksonville Journal, the full membership of the city commission, the president of the city council, the presidents and managers of the chamber of commerce and the Junior chamber, the presidents of three banks, the presidents of several organizations and several other citizens.

The mayor's version of the storm was substantiated and the appeal that the false impression be corrected was repeated in a wire received by The Constitution later Tuesday night from P. H. Harrison, president of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Harrison stated that the city experienced a 48-mile per hour wind and a 4-inch rainfall Monday, but property damage was slight, and there were no injuries.

Local officials of the Mather Brothers Furniture company Tuesday received telegraphic advices from H. R. Wilburn, manager of the West Palm Beach branch, telling of the storm damage to the store.

The message was relayed through Miami, and stated that the store, warehouse and shed roofs were lifted from the walls, that four of the front windows were broken and a portion of the front wall swept away. Mr. Wilburn stated that he remained all night at the store Monday with the watchman to prevent looting of the place.

Path of Hurricane

and buried at Okeechobee this afternoon by a battery of field artillery men from Arcadia. Captain Rupert Smith advised the St. Petersburg Times tonight by long distance telephone.

Captain Smith said he did not have a list of the victims but added that they had been identified as rural residents on the outskirts of Okeechobee. The search for bodies continued tonight.

11 BODIES RECOVERED NEAR ARCADIA. Arcadia, Fla., September 18.—(AP)—National guardsmen from this place have recovered 11 bodies from the marshes of Lake Okeechobee in the lake shore section near Okeechobee, where the hurricane was said to have swept a tidal wave over settlements. More than 20 other persons are missing.

DEAD IDENTIFIED; FAMILY PERISHES. West Palm Beach, Fla., September 18.—(AP)—M. S. McCracken, a Red Cross worker, returned from the city of Okeechobee today and said he had been given a death list for that section including Lucille Cook, 2; Bill Lee, 7; Essie Lee, 40; Eugene Cook, 3 months; Winifred Frazier, 7; Robert Upthegrove, age unknown; Robert Lightsey, 4; John Lee, age unknown; Elbert Upthegrove, age unknown; Paula Ruth Upthegrove, age unknown; Frank Goldwin, 55. He dropped dead from excitement a moment before his house was blown away. This was the only casualty reported for the city of Okeechobee proper.

The entire Lee family, which lived on the northern shore of the lake, was believed lost.

One mortuary here reported the following dead: John Anderson Blaylock, 46, killed in Westgates.

Flora Farr, died local hotel during storm, presumably of fright.

One Mr. Kilpatrick, middle aged, white, died in local hospital.

Another mortuary listed: A Mrs. Smith, 62, who was drowned. A baby, two years old, drowned. M. Nemes, Kelsey City, killed by storm.

West Palm Beach, Fla., September 18.—(By Wireless from Station 44FC to 41Z Tampa.)—(AP)—Deplorable conditions faced Palm Beach county residents who set about rebuilding homes, business and farms today following the worst hurricane in its history. Howard Selby, chairman of the county Red Cross, said damage in the county was estimated at $25,000,000, the death list might be 250 and a thousand persons injured.

"This storm can't be exaggerated," Selby said.

All roads and bridges west have been destroyed or washed out and Ocean boulevard has been washed out for two miles north. The entire area in that vicinity has been flooded. It will take two years to rebuild the city.

Canal Point was getting water from one pump and there were no medical supplies there. The body of one white woman was found but there were believed to have been no other fatalities.

75 Per Cent Damage. Food supplies were said to be adequate for a day or two at Pahokee, where much roofing was needed before reconstruction could begin. Disinfectant also was badly needed. Sixty-five refugees and six injured are there, where the number of deaths was estimated at between 75 and 100. Some of the bodies were ready for disposition today.

Food was being distributed to refugees quartered in four churches, which were among the few buildings left standing and food and clothing was being sent to outlying farms. Laboring men have agreed to go to work on half pay for unlimited hours.

The following report on adjoining counties has been made by the Red Cross:

Lake Worth and Boynton, 70 per cent of homes damaged or destroyed. One hundred and fifty families at Lake Worth and 50 at Boynton homeless. Fifty million dollars damage at Lake Worth and $500,000 at Boynton. Wagons needed in vicinity of Pahokee.

Boca Raton, 125 to 175 buildings damaged, one seriously injured. Settlers from back country being brought here.

Greenacres, food and clothing needed badly.

Town Wiped Out. All homes damaged at Belle Glade and Pahokee and all residents homeless. Dikes around lake broken near South Bay and flooding that territory and Belle Glade. Water rising along lake (Okeechobee). Transportation can be had only as far as Florida experimental station four miles east of Belle Glade. Supplies must be carried by boat.

At Pahokee, 300 persons were quartered in school house. Only one doctor there and he is overworked.

Known four whites and dead and number of negroes. Lake Okeechobee high and practically everything down. Del Ray, entire city swept and immediate aid needed. Houses unroofed and 75 per cent of people apparently forced to abandon homes. No deaths or serious injury.

West Gate, 50 or 60 school children housed in school house with roof off. Need quick relief.

Okeechobee, reports say virtually wiped out with many casualties. Roads almost impassible and virtually impossible to get communication.

Streets of West Palm Beach rapidly were being cleared of debris today. The waterfront is badly damaged and strewn with wrecked boats. Docks and waterfront buildings badly damaged or wrecked.

Damage to Citrus. "Polk County: Grapefruit damage 25 per cent; oranges 10 per cent."

"DeSoto County: Average loss for subexchange approximately 15 per cent on grapefruit, 7-12 per cent on oranges; tangerines none."

"Lee County: Practically no damage."

"Manatee County: Practically no damage."

"Sarasota County: Practically no damage."

"Pinellas County: Practically no damage."

"Hillsborough County: Practically no damage."

"Lake County: Grapefruit approximately 10 per cent; oranges practically undamaged."

"Marion County: Grapefruit approximately 10 per cent; oranges probably undamaged."

PLANES HUNT CREW 'WINDMILL' PLANE OF SUNKEN SHIP HOPS THE CHANNEL

Owen Sound, Ont., September 18.—(AP)—Airplanes flew above Georgian bay in Lake Huron today in vain search for more survivors of the cattle ship Manasoo, which sank as though yanked beneath the stormy waters by some mysterious monster of the deep.

Five survivors were recovering in a hospital, saved after pitching on a leaking raft for two days and a half. One member of the crew was known to be dead and 17 other men were believed to have been lost.

Cattle Transport.

The Manasoo, a converted passenger ship formerly known as the Manassa, had made its last regular trip for the season, but was pressed into service for a special trip to transport 40 head of cattle from West Bay, Manitoulin island, to Owen Sound. There was a crew of 21, Donald Wallace, drover, in charge of the cattle, and his friend, George Lambert, completing the personnel.

Early Saturday morning a storm was encountered, but the boat rode easily and no concern was felt. The cattle were in special stalls to prevent their shifting, and most of the crew went to bed.

Suddenly Captain John McKay, on the bridge, noticed a loss of buoyancy and a distinct list and sent First Mate Oliver Long down to investigate. Before Long could report back, or even determine the nature of the trouble, the ship was plunging down into the water with all hands who did not chance to be on deck.

Captain McKay went down on his bridge, but he fought his way back to the surface and crawled upon a raft that had been lying unattended on the wheelhouse. He found there before him the first mate, Chief Engineer Thomas McCutcheon, Purser Middleton, Ray Fox, an oiler, and the drover, Wallace.

Long Vigil Begins.

Then the long vigil began, with cold rain pelting them and high waves throwing them up toward the black sky and dropping them to fall deep into wet pits. In a flash of lightning they once saw an overturned life boat with two figures clinging to it. Another flash revealed one, and after that they saw nothing.

McCutcheon, the engineer, died and his body was thrown overboard to lighten the craft.

The Canadian Pacific steamer Manitoba hove in sight at last and though the waves still were high a life boat was launched and the gaunt survivors, half starved and half frozen, were placed in warm bunks.

HEAD OF MINERS' UNION PRAISES HOOVER'S SPEECH

Springfield, Ill., September 18.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, commenting on the speech of Herbert Hoover last night, declared that "Mr.

Hoover penetrates the heart of America's industrial and economic problem when he declares for full and stable employment for the workers of America.

"His Newark address," Mr. Lewis said, "reveals his intimate and comprehensive grasp of the economic factors which are the every day concern of the average American. His specific declarations in favor of high wages, free collective bargaining, restrictions on the use of injunctions in labor disputes, tariff schedules protective of American labor, continuance of immigration restrictions, further expansion of our foreign export trade and governmental assistance to the depressed textile and bituminous coal industries constitute a program that should carry an intense appeal to every thoughtful citizen."

VIRGINIA HOLDS TWO IN THEFT OF CLOTHING STORE

Washington, September 18.—(AP)—Two men, giving their names as J. H. Waldron and William Jackson Carter and their address as Memphis, are held in jail in Danville, Va., in connection with the robbery here Monday night of James H. Chambers, haberdasher, and the theft of an automobile.

Chambers was in his place of business when the men entered and bound him after robbing him of $65 and a watch. They then laid in a supply of clothing and going to the Stoneleigh garage, near by, took an expensive roadster, after forcing Walter Dunn, negro, into the rumble seat. Dunn was not released until near Richmond, where he told his story. The arrest at Danville followed.

Police say that Waldron and Carter have confessed robbing Chambers and stealing the automobile, which belonged to J. E. Hayes. Goods stolen from the haberdasher were found in the car and both men were carrying revolvers, officials reported.

CURTIS TALKS FARM IN DOZEN SPEECHES

Henry, Ill., September 18.—(AP)—Republican hopes for agriculture were discussed in a dozen speeches today by Senator Curtis, the party's vice presidential nominee, as he crossed the farming areas of Illinois and Iowa on his western tour.

Most of the talks were delivered from the platform of his newly acquired private car placed at his disposal as he left Chicago this morning by the republican national committee. He detained, however, to give a prepared address at Henry, Ill., motored from here to Peoria to speak again before boarding the train later tonight.

Senator Curtis also spoke before a gathering of folks from Rock Island and Moline, meeting in the Augustana college auditorium.

Talks Farming.

From the outset at Joliet, the first stop of the day, Senator Curtis talked farming. He said the party believed a higher tariff would aid the ailing agriculturalists. He told of the promise of Herbert Hoover to call a conference of farm leaders and expressed his hope that non-partisan legislation could be agreed upon at the next session of congress.

"The republicans are going to see to it that this great industry is placed on an equality with the others," the senator declared.

Entering Iowa after nightfall, the senator had stops arranged for Davenport and other Iowa cities. In every talk he called upon the people to support Mr. Hoover, whom he praised as a "friend of our homes and of our people."

A delegation of Illinois party leaders accompanied the senator from Chicago and members of congress from the districts he visited introduced him.

Leaders Optimistic.

The party leaders were optimistic but informed the vice presidential nominee of their hopes for greater enthusiasm among the farmers.

C. Seymour Bullock, lecturer of South Bend, Ind., joined Senator Curtis at Chicago for his tour of the west, and will help share the speaking burden of the candidate. Tomorrow Senator Curtis stops at Spencer, Iowa, to deliver his first prepared address west of the Mississippi after a month of campaigning through the east.

FIVE WRECK VICTIMS FOUND ON A RAFT

Owen Sound, Ontario, September 18.—(AP)—Five men, believed to be the only survivors of 23 members of the crew and passengers on the cattle boat Manasoo, which foundered in Georgian bay early Saturday morning, were recovering from exposure here today.

The five were taken from a life-raft on which they had drifted for 48 hours. They were rescued by the Canadian Pacific steamer Manitoba yesterday and brought to this port. All are expected to recover.

The other 16 members of the crew and one passenger are believed to have perished.

Chief Engineer Thomas McCutcheon, of the Manasoo, died aboard the raft shortly before the rescue. His body was stripped of its clothing and tossed into the bay to lighten the raft, awash at the time, because of its heavy burden and leaking pontoons. His clothing was given to Arthur Middleton, the purser, who had escaped clad only in his underwear. He is survived by his widow and two small children. He was a native of Fife-shire, Scotland.

The survivors told Captain F. J. Davis, of the Manitoba, that the Manasoo sank almost without warning, giving no opportunity to launch lifeboats or warn the members of the crew who were below decks.

The ship foundered before daybreak, and in the pitch darkness the men on the raft had no opportunity to rescue any of the missing. When dawn came they saw two lifeboats, one overturned with two men clinging to its sides, the other apparently unoccupied. They quickly drifted away, however, and were not seen again. It is not believed the two men could have hung on long.

Sen. Smoot Says Hoover's Majority Will Beat Coolidge's

Salt Lake City, September 18.—(AP)—Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, last night predicted that Herbert Hoover would be elected president with a larger majority than that given President Coolidge four years ago, and that five and possibly six states of the "solid south" would support the republican nominee.

In a speech here the senator said he believed Tennessee, North Carolina, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Kentucky and possibly Florida would go for Hoover.

OUR one ambition is to make of this store a better place for our friends to trade. That was the idea when it was founded 60 years ago—it is the one ambition now.

Eliminate friendship and you rob business of its greatest pleasure, likewise its most coveted treasure. People who buy goods of us are our most loyal friends.

So . . . we are constantly striving to make of this store a better place for our friends to trade. Better values, better service, better everything that can be improved upon.

We like to have people say—"There's a GOOD clothing store." We do hear it often, but would like to broaden our acquaintance and hear it spoken by more people.

If statistics are dependable, there are more men's suits bought within the price range of $35 to $50 than in the lower and higher grades combined. (This applies in cities).

With this fact staring us in the face, we intend to concentrate hereafter on prices which appeal to the greatest number of people.

We have effected an arrangement with one of the most progressive manufacturers in this country to tailor clothes according to OUR specifications.

In so doing we know that we are getting clothes made as people in the SOUTH like to have them—not as they are preferred in New England or the far west.

And with this new connection we obtain another great advantage—PRICE—which enables us to give our old and new friends better values than we were ever in position to do before.

Thus our ambitions are rewarded—to make of this store a better place for our friends to trade.

Henceforth, our price range on suits will be limited to $35, $38, $45, $50—and a much larger assortment at each of these prices.

M'DANIEL DEATH ACCIDENT, SAYS FAIR

clared that it was a case of "murder or nothing." Stephens classed Fair as a "menace to the state and society," and characterized the defendant as a "cowardly assassin who shot Griffin in the back." The shooting of McDaniel was a cold-blooded affair, Stephens asserted.

Admitting that the defendant was engaged in an unlawful act at the time of McDaniel's shooting, Attorney Guilbeaux asked the jury to convict Fair for "the crime that he is guilty of—involuntary manslaughter." He claimed that Fair ran directly to McDaniel for the purpose of giving himself up for protection.

Selection of Jury.
Selection of the jury of 12 men proved an exceptionally hard task, because of the great number of jurors who admitted either prejudice or bias or that they were opposed to capital punishment. A total of 98 prospective jurors, going into nine panels, were examined before sufficient for a jury were chosen out of a competent 27. The state exercises not a single strike, while the defense used 15 preemptory challenges.

The jury completed at 11:30 o'clock. Judge John D. Humphries immediately moved into trial of the case, and Attorney Guilbeaux announced that he had no intention of calling any witnesses unless something unforeseen turned up. Mrs. G. E. Elmore, of 254 Peachwood drive, who was standing in front of 104 Decatur street with Officer McDaniel when Fair ran up, was the first witness called.

Mrs. Elmore testified that she was conversing with the McDaniel when she heard voices crying, "Catch him," and that, looking up, she saw Fair running toward them. McDaniel ran out and caught Fair, and the two had taken several steps toward Silverman's store, where she worked, when Fair shot the first time. She ran back into the rear part of the store, and heard a second shot, Mrs. Elmore said. Under cross-examination by Guilbeaux, Mrs. Elmore said she never saw McDaniel with a pistol in his hand, and said that he made no effort to harm Fair.

Marks Fair's Path.

She marked Fair's path across Decatur street, as well as the spot where she and McDaniel had been standing and where McDaniel caught Fair, on a map of the scene presented to her by Assistant Solicitor Stephens.

J. Austin Dillon, undertaker, testified as to an incision found on McDaniel's body where the bullet entered, and also as to a blue place on the thigh, though he said that he made no examination for bullet holes. Dr. J. M. Watson, of the Grady hospital staff, said the McDaniel was wounded in the abdomen and in the left thigh, death resulting from general peritonitis brought about by the abdominal wound. He said that a white spot on a bone shown in an x-ray negative was believed to be an imbedded bullet. McDaniel was admitted to the hospital Thursday, August 16, and retained consciousness almost up to the time of his death on Sunday, August 19.

Mrs. Alexander Testifies.

The statement that she saw Fair in the act of taking his pistol out of his pocket and making ready to point it at McDaniel was made by Mrs. W. H. Alexander, head nurse at the Ansley Baby Home, on Crew street. Under cross-examination, Mrs. Alexander said that Fair stopped and fired just before he reached the officer.

Although he could not identify Fair in the court room, James Cunningham, colored, swore that he saw the man who shot McDaniel fire just as McDaniel threw up his hand. McDaniel asked Fair, "What did you shoot me for?" but Cunningham did not hear Fair's reply, he testified. He said that McDaniel and Fair were scuffling when the last shot was fired and that this shot, the third, was fired into the air, as McDaniel was holding Fair's pistol hand.

Under cross-examination Cunningham swore that McDaniel and Fair were six feet apart when the first shot was fired and that Fair had the pistol in his hand when Cunningham first saw him. Pressed as to whether he had ever been in jail, Cunningham said he had been out for so long that he could not tell when, but admitted that he had been in jail once.

Griffin Tells of Shooting.

E. L. Griffin, brother-in-law of Mrs. Heath, who was wounded by Fair just before the defendant shot Mc-

Daniel, said that the first he saw of Fair was when the defendant stuck his head and shoulders in the right rear window of the automobile and demanded that Griffin "stop right where you are." Fair pointed the pistol right into his face, but he waved off the first shot by knocking the gun aside with his hand; the second shot missed, and the third shot hit him in the right side, Griffin testified. The courtroom crowd laughed when he said that the bore of the gun "looked bigger than that" on being shown the gun.

Judge Humphries recessed court at 1:15 o'clock until 2:30 o'clock. Griffin resumed the stand when court reconvened, and the jury heard testimony while Attorney Guilbeaux argued for the admission of testimony that Griffin and other relatives of Mrs. Heath had shot John Zink by mistake for Fair. Guilbeaux said he was trying to show that Griffin was gunning for Fair and that Fair knew he was liable to be shot down at night. Judge Humphries barred "what happened on the previous occasion." The jury was called back in and Guilbeaux then asked, "How many of you are you, Mr. Griffin?" Judge Humphries promptly advised the witness: "You need not answer that." "Come down, then," the judge said.

A. M. Dodd, police court bailiff, told of receiving the fatal gun and the prisoner, Fair, from McDaniel, who the latter and Fair were driven up to the police station. McDaniel told Dodd, "Take this man; he shot me, I've got to go to the hospital." Dodd said. The witness then said that he broke open the pistol and asked Fair: "You emptied the gun?" Fair replied in the affirmative. Dodd said, when Dodd asked Fair why he shot McDaniel, the defendant replied, "I don't know." Dodd said. The witness said that every cartridge in the gun had been fired, and that the turkey rented several bullets from Fair's pocket. Under cross-examination, Dodd said that Fair was not handcuffed when he arrived at the station house.

Admitted as Evidence.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin tendered the pistol and bullets as evidence, and then rested for the state.

He told of his alleged association with Mrs. Heath and said that he lost his job several times because he went with her. His wife left him, and he planned to go to Florida with Mrs. Heath, where they would both obtain divorces and then marry each other. Fair said, He claimed that he did not kidnap Mrs. Heath, but that she begged him to take her to Florida. Her relatives knew of his dealings with Mrs. Heath, and he knew trouble would occur when she left him in Florida, so he came back to Atlanta, got his wife and went to Detroit, he said. He said that he recalled seeing Fair on the kidnaping charge, and with a pistol in his pocket, passed Officer McDaniel while on the way to the police station. He cut across Decatur street toward the police station side of the street, when he saw Mrs. Heath get imbedded bullet. McDaniel was admitted to the hospital Thursday, August 16, and retained consciousness almost up to the time of his death on Sunday, August 19.

Fair declared that he ran to the car, threw the pistol on Griffin and said: "Hands up." He denied any intention of shooting, but that Griffin reached down by his wife's leg, and he, Fair, then shot. He ran back toward McDaniel for protection, and his terrific speed carried him off when it brushed against McDaniel's leg, Fair said. He did not know how many times he shot, because of his terrific excitement, the defendant stated. He claimed that he then laid the gun on a trunk, and that McDaniel got him by the belt and carried him to the police station by automobile. McDaniel got out with him at the police station and told an officer to "take this man. I am shot," Fair said. He denied that McDaniel came out on the sidewalk to meet him at the time of the shooting. "I went there for his protection—and that was the outcome of it," Fair said.

Defense Rests.

The defense rested. The state next introduced Lily Zelen, who was in the rear of Silverman's store when, she said, she heard shots, and then saw Fair and McDaniel wrestling and struggling. On cross-examination, she said the smoke from the gun was inside the store. She testified that she was away from the aisle when she heard the shots, her view being blocked until she had walked to the aisle. Miss Dora Kosnoffsky, also employed in Silverman's store, said she was typing a letter when she looked up at the sound of the shots and saw McDaniel and Fair fighting in the doorway. McDaniel pulled Fair into the store, she said. Although she first testified that McDaniel put the pistol on a box at the entrance of the store, she admitted under cross-examination that she did not know if McDaniel did so as she did not actually see him put the gun on the box.

Will Jones, colored, who works at 109 Decatur street, across from Silverman's, said he heard three shots under the viaduct, and saw Fair running across Decatur street with his right hand on the gun in his hip-pocket. Fair pulled the gun out and shot again, Jones said. McDaniel grabbed Fair and took him into the store, he said. Fair pulled the gun after McDaniel took hold of him, Jones said.

Under cross-examination, Jones admitted that while he had not been in jail, he got "out of trouble in January." Asked what the "trouble" was, he said he served eight months on the chain gang for "whiskey."

After a brief recess, Mrs. McDaniel was offered as the state's last witness, and identified the hot-torn uniform as the new one worn by her husband for the first time on the day of the shooting.

The case then went into argument.

Letter From Forrest.

The letter signed by Forrest on which the suit is based follows: "Office of Grand Dragon, 'Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Realm of Georgia, Atlanta.'"

"April 23, 1928.

"Dear Klansman: I have recently returned from a trip to Washington, D. C., where I have been in conference with our imperial wizard and national officers in reference to the 'Al Smith Campaign.'"

"We find that the 'Al Smith' sentiment is growing with such rapidity that unless the klansmen of America wake up and do their part, it is almost a certainty that he will be nominated for president of the United States, with a strong possibility that he will be elected."

"The plan is the only organization in the United States that can block his nomination, and we cannot even do this unless every klansman will realize his own responsibility in the matter and cooperate with us in the work we are trying to do."

"If you are willing to see a Roman Catholic as president of the United States, this letter will not appeal to you. The situation is both serious and alarming and your only chance of defeating Al Smith is for every klansman to start immediately to build up his own clan and get as many reinforcements and new members as possible."

"You have been elected to the K. Trio degree and this proves that you are deemed worthy of the trust imposed upon you, and I am appealing upon you to put your shoulder to the wheel and bring in every new member possible before the end of this quarter. It is also important that you take an active part in the reinstatement of all suspended members. If every klansman in Georgia will only do his duty and assist in the campaign we will easily double our membership before July 1."

"I have just returned from the hearing at Pittsburgh, Pa., and this case alone shows us just what we may expect in the future. A vicious attack is now being made upon not only the Klan, but upon the personal character of our imperial wizard and all of our leaders, with the idea of destroying the klansmen's faith in the organization before the national election. Advertisements are now being published in the want columns of various newspapers all over the country addressed to 'Former or Present Klansmen,' advising them to write a certain 'committee' purporting to represent every state in the union for important information, and giving a post office box number in Atlanta, Ga. This matter is of such import that it will bear close watching. I find that this blind 'ad' is being carried all over the country in an effort to secure the names of klansmen. These names will undoubtedly be turned over to the 'Al Smith committee' and malicious and false propaganda be placed in the hands of klansmen who reply to this

'ad' in an effort to create distrust and discord of our members. The man who answers these replies in Georgia is one W. F. Brandt, of Atlanta, who is a German-Jew, who, during the world war is alleged to have been under the surveillance of the government as a German spy. I am advised that ex-Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, who is a bitter enemy of the Klan, has been retained to prosecute the case against the Klan and that proceedings similar to the Pittsburgh case will be filed here in Georgia within a short time. Every klansman who answers one of these advertisements will unquestionably reveal his identity to the 'Al Smith Committee.'"

"We are in no danger if every klansman will remain loyal and do his part, but if our members do not rally to the support of our leaders, attend meetings and assist in building up your local Klan danger stares us in the face."

"Pay no attention to false and misleading reports that are being circulated by the press. This is purely enemy propaganda intended to make you lose faith in your organization and its leaders. If there is anything pertaining to the estate and national organization that you do not understand, I will be only too glad to explain same to you."

"Please read the inclosed pamphlets carefully and pass same on to some Protestant friend, who is not a member of our organization and try to get him to join us in the fight."

"If you want to see a Roman Catholic president of the United States, this letter will not appeal to you. May fifth (5th) is the last date for you to register, so you can vote in the national election in November. A klansman who does not register and vote is not a good klansman or a good citizen. I wish to impress upon you the fact that if you ever expect to do your duty and rally to the support of your organization now is the time."

"Sincerely yours, 'N. B. FORREST, 'Grand Dragon, Realm of Georgia.'"

BORGLUM'S RETURN TO BE DISCUSSED

monument is faced with a crisis. Your executive committee has considered it from every angle and decided to refer the whole situation to the board of directors."

Lukeman Engaged.
Mr. Lukeman, it will be recalled, was engaged by the association to make models for the monument and supervise the carving after the association had cancelled its contract with Mr. Borglum, following a dispute with the original sculptor, Mr. Venable and other members of the Venable family have sided with Mr. Borglum throughout the differences. Whether or not the deed to the face of the mountain, given the association by the Venable family, is now abrogated by failure of the association to fulfill certain conditions, as claimed by Mr. Venable, would be a matter for decision of the court in event suit was instituted.

Mr. Willis, in his call for the meeting, states that the association's attorneys dispute this claim and are prepared to defend the association's title to the mountain scarp, which, they believe, can be successfully done.

Letter of Willis.
Mr. Willis' letter to the directors, calling the special meeting for Friday, is as follows:

"To the Board of Directors, Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental Association:
"For the past two months I have been laboring to the best of my ability to bring about a settlement of the differences between your association and Mr. Samuel H. Venable and certain persons who enjoyed the payment to your association of an appropriation by Fulton county. Most of my negotiations have been with Mr. Venable and Dr. Plato T. Durham, who acted as an intermediary. Conference after conference has been held, all in good feeling."

"As a result of the negotiations, they have reduced to writing a proposal embodying the terms upon which a settlement can be effected. One of the articles of the agreement they propose is that your association could employ Mr. Gutzon Borglum to design and carve on Stone Mountain a monument in addition to the one now in progress under Mr. Lukeman. I am positive that no settlement can be had unless this is done."

"Mr. Lukeman's contract provides that any additional or future work, beyond the work now in progress, should be submitted to him with a view of awarding him a commission therefor. Hence the employment of Mr. Lukeman would violate Mr. Lukeman's contract, unless Mr. Lukeman should waive his rights, which he declines to do."

"If your association declines the proposal submitted by Mr. Venable has stated emphatically to me that he will at once enter suit to recover the portion of Stone Mountain which he and others of his family decided to the association in 1916. Mr. Venable takes the position that certain stipulations or conditions in the deed have not been fulfilled. Your association's attorneys dispute that claim, and are prepared to defend your association's title, which they believe they can do successfully."

"From the facts above stated, you will perceive that the monument is faced with a crisis. Your executive committee has considered it from every angle and decided to refer the whole situation to the board of directors. For that purpose a special meeting of the board will be held next Friday, September 21, 1928, at 3 o'clock p. m. in the assembly hall of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, in the city of Atlanta, Ga."

"Each and every member of the board is earnestly requested to lay aside all other business and attend this meeting. I cannot too strongly emphasize the importance of a full attendance, as I feel justified in saying that no other meeting in the history of the monument has ever been of greater importance. I assume that all members residing in Atlanta, and I hope all residing in Georgia, will attend. In the event distant members cannot come to the meeting, please write me by return mail an expression of your views as to the acceptance or non-acceptance of the proposal before us."

"Thanking you, and with regards, I am, 'G. F. WILLIS, 'President.'"

Atlanta, Ga., September 17, 1928.

APPEAL FOR EULA HEARD BY BOARD

in this state, her execution taking place about fifty years ago.

DOOMED WOMAN CONSIDERED SUICIDE.

Chatsworth, Ga., September 18.—Eula Thompson, in the county jail here, had laid a plan to poison herself with carbolic acid yesterday afternoon or last night. She had secured from some unknown source enough carbolic acid to kill about eight persons.

Sheriff Wilbanks' suspicions were aroused in the evening and he went to Eula's cell and found a vial which had been emptied and following up the clue he found the contents in a glass ready to be taken.

She admitted to the sheriff that she had intended taking the poison in the afternoon but was prevented from doing so by the presence of her father and mother and other visitors.

Not being satisfied the sheriff continued his search and found another bottle in the sewer which contained two ounces of carbolic acid. Eula then told the sheriff that after her disappointment in the afternoon she had planned that after all had gone to sleep last night to take the poison and that they would find her dead this morning.

Eula Thompson has been convicted of murder and sentenced to die in the electric chair on the 21st of this month for assisting her husband, Clifford Thompson, and Jim Hugh Moss, a negro, who have already met death in the electric chair, for killing Coleman Osborne, a merchant of this county. Sheriff Wilbanks and his deputies took Eula to Milledgeville today where she will meet her doom Friday unless the prison board or the governor intercedes.

GEORGE TO SPEAK IN GREENE COUNTY

Greensboro, Ga., September 19.—Senator Walter F. George will deliver an address in Greensboro at the courthouse, Saturday morning under the auspices of the Green County Democratic club. Carey Williams, of Greensboro, is chairman. This will be the first appearance of Senator George in Greene county and it is expected that a large crowd will hear his address.

The Greene County Democratic club is very active in this county in behalf of the nominees. Petitions are in circulation in different sections of the county.

Carey Williams, chairman, has appointed leaders in the various militia districts of Greene county to assist in securing members. They are:

John S. Callaway, Greensboro; Dr. W. H. Lewis, Siloam; R. E. Stapleton, White Plains; C. Ross Wall, Union Point; D. E. Moore, Macedonia; Frank Durham, Woodville; R. B. Weil, Wraywood; W. H. Marchman, Vezay, and J. M. Cox, Salem.

Mr. Williams says it is the intention of the club to secure an active leader in every militia district of the county, there being 16 districts in Greene.

FOREIGN CONSULS WILL MEET TODAY WITH MASONIC CLUB

Consuls representing foreign nations in Atlanta will be guests of honor and principal speakers at the Atlanta Masonic club luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today, in the Wine-coff hotel. The meeting will mark opening of the fall season of the club and will be followed by regular weekly gatherings.

Five foreign consulates are located in Atlanta and the diplomats from these offices have been invited to meet with the Masonic club. A five-minute address by each of the consuls is planned, the subject for the addresses being "The Most Wonderful Thing About My Country."

Diplomatic representatives scheduled to appear at the luncheon are S. E. Kay, British consul; Dr. Rolf J. Jaeger, Germany; Chevalier Attilio Bollati, Italy; P. B. Tringhetas, Greece; and Oscar Montegudis, Cuba.

A musical program of national anthems, arranged by Dr. and Mrs. T. G. Fowler, will feature the entertainment. R. C. Broyles, president of the Masonic club, will preside.

COUNTIES URGED TO SEND DELEGATE LIST TO SECRETARY

Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the state democratic executive committee, wants the county committees to send in their selections of delegates to the state convention to be held in Macon October 5, she announced Tuesday. She wants the names of the delegates so that she can arrange the seating accommodations and make other preparations for the convention. Several county democratic executive committees have failed to send in lists of their delegates to the convention. Under the rules of the state democratic executive committee the delegates must be named "from the friends and supporters" of the winning candidate for governor, in this case Governor L. G. Hardman.

County committees which have not sent in the lists of delegates to Mrs. Anderson are urged to send them in at once, as their delay is causing the committee serious inconvenience.

Atlanta Ready To Welcome 2,500 Southern Employees

Preparations were completed here Tuesday for reception of 2,500 new citizens, employees of the Southern railroad's Washington office and their families, whose transfer to an Atlanta headquarters begins Saturday, September 29, and continuing through October 20 will mark the largest single influx of new residents in the history of the city.

Seven floors of office space have been added to the Southern railroad's two buildings fronting Spring street, and cornering on Mitchell street and Nelson street, one block south. The adjoining office buildings have been bridged across Nelson street with a four-floor corridor arch.

Install New Furniture. Workmen Tuesday commenced installation of new furniture in the Nelson street building, which is virtually completed. Since April 1 five stories have been added to this structure, originally three stories.

Two floors also have been added on the Mitchell street section. T. L. Shelton, assistant auditor for the Southern, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday, and conferred with Chamber of Commerce officials and real estate agents with regard to housing facilities for the expected arrivals.

Mr. Shelton also is supervising installation of office equipment, all of which will be arranged in readiness for the workers, so that files may be transferred and the regular office routine taken up here with least possible delay.

Arrive September 29. "About 1,200 employees will be moved here from Washington," Mr. Shelton said. "The first arrivals, a group of workers and their families numbering 751, will reach Atlanta in two special trains on September 29. The hour of arrival will be announced later."

The first group will include employees of the auditor of freight accounts, who will take up quarters in the fifth, sixth and seventh floors of the new building.

"We have arranged to bring in the employees on Saturday, since that will leave them part of Saturday and Sunday to get settled before taking up their duties Monday morning."

"For the past three months the Atlanta housing committee, composed of Senior and Junior Chamber of Commerce officials, representatives from the Evangelical Ministers association and railroad officers have been working out a plan to house the newcomers."

Reception Committees. "Many of them have been in correspondence with real estate agents here and already have arranged for lodging, apartments or homes, as the case may be."

"The various incoming trains will be met by reception committees of Atlantans, who are offering to place automobiles at their disposal of the new citizens, and otherwise help them to get settled here, and to give them a favorable first impression of Atlanta."

"Two more special trains, bringing 207 persons, will arrive here Saturday, October 6. These will include employees of the auditor of passenger accounts, the auditor of station accounts, and the overcharge freight claim departments."

"On October 20 another group will come in two specials, the employees of the office of superintendent of car records."

"Later we expect the tariff and ticket stock officials and their assistants, under E. N. Aiken, general passenger agent."

Desirable Citizens. "All of the newcomers are highly desirable citizens and their coming to Atlanta doubtless will be of mutual benefit to themselves and the community life of your city. The office personnel includes departmental heads, lesser office executives and high class clerical employees.

"When the change is complete Atlanta will have the largest concentration of office help which the Southern maintains, although executive offices will remain in Washington, requiring more than 1,000 employees of that division."

"Other large offices are located in Richmond, Cincinnati, Chattanooga and Charlotte. The move to Atlanta is in accord with a policy of decentralization of the office staff, necessitated by a steady increase in general office personnel and the desirability of a more central location for the larger units."

"Atlanta was chosen for the comparatively large concentration because it is located near the center of the Southern system, about equally accessible to New Orleans, Memphis and St. Louis, as well as to the Carolinas, Alabama and east Tennessee."

"Our new quarters here represent one of the best railroad offices I have ever seen. The buildings are modern throughout, well ventilated, and the unusually large window space makes for ideal lighting conditions."

"The office building on Mitchell street is eight stories, with 11,000 square feet of space per floor, while the Nelson street building, also eight stories, has 22,000 square feet per floor."

RUTH ELDER'S HUBBY JOINS BYRD'S CREW

Panama, September 18.—(AP)—Lyle Womack, who is suing Ruth Elder for divorce, was bound for the Antarctic today aboard the City of New York, one of the ships of Commander Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the south pole.

Womack signed as an oiler yesterday and sailed for Dunedin, New Zealand, aboard the vessel.

Womack was understood to have originally planned to enter the army flying school in Texas but apparently encountered difficulties because he was married, which was thought to have barred enlistment.

Womack is the second person from the isthmus to join the Byrd expedition. Max Bechtle, a Panama railroad employee, signed as third assistant engineer replacing William Jennings Cummings, who will return to New York because of ill health.

Womack brought suit for divorce from the aviatrix early in September charging cruelty in his petition and stating that his wife's trans-Atlantic flight attempt of last year caused him many sleepless nights. Miss Elder, interview in Hollywood when the suit was filed, said that she would not contest it.

DURANT SHOW ROOMS READY FOR NEW MODELS

All day long the show room of the Durant Motor company of Atlanta, local Durant branch, was thronged Tuesday with people attracted by one of the most novel window displays ever seen here. This window display is causing great curiosity by its simplicity, crossed brooms tied with a huge red ribbon—and not an automobile in sight, the show room being completely cleaned out and sparklingly clean.

In an interview with A. J. Pursley it was learned that practically all of the 2,500 Durant dealers all over the country are making this same display in recognition of a clean sweep made by Durant motors, preparatory to the introduction of new models next week.

Ever since introduction of the Durant silver anniversary models at the national automobile show in New York last January the Durant factories have had to exert every effort possible to fulfill the unprecedented demand for this brilliant line of cars. Record after record has been broken, production gains being made every month, and already this year there have been nearly 90,000 Durant cars sold.

In July production was cut down in anticipation of a seasonal let-up, but this did not materialize in Durant sales and production had to be immediately stepped up again. Durant sales continuing to make new heights right through the summer months.

This unexpected demand resulted in the Durant factories running out of material for building the silver anniversary models of the Durant four and Durant 35, because purchases had been made in accord with an anticipated falling off of sales, and these models are now completely sold out.

In view of this situation the new models of these two cars which might have been introduced at the New York automobile show next January are to be shown here next week instead. They are already in production and are expected to meet with even greater demand than their predecessors. Announcement of the local exhibition date will be made in a few days.

AVIATOR DEPARTS WITH AIR MAIL ON SCHEDULE TIME

Undeterred by the fact that Pilot Dick Merrill was forced down at Anderson, S. C., Monday night, Pilot Sydney Malloy left Candler field Tuesday night on schedule time with the air mail for New York and other points on the northern route. Pilot Gene Brown was forced to land at Greensboro and forward the Atlanta bound mail by train late Monday night, it was reported.

Pilot Merrill reported that he was forced to land at Anderson by a terrific windstorm.

BULLET MARKINGS MAY CONVICT MAN

Los Angeles, September 18.—(AP)—Markings on the bullets that killed Miss Barbara Mauer, Philadelphia girl, may hold the fate of Russell Beitzel, formerly of Philadelphia, on trial here for the alleged slaying of the girl in a secluded spot in the Hollywood Hills last June.

With a revolver, admitted by Beitzel as his own, introduced as evidence in the case, prosecution forces today planned to call a firearms expert to scrutinize it in the hope of proving peculiarities in the bullets found in Miss Mauer's body correspond with markings in the weapons barrel.

Beitzel's trial was resumed yesterday after a delay of several days granted to give the accused time to familiarize a new attorney with his defense plans.

SMITH HITS G. O. P. IN OMAHA SPEECH

principle shall be put into effect alone remains to be worked out.

"I pledge to the farmers and to the people of this country," he added, "that no stone will be left unturned to give immediate and adequate farm relief, by legislation carrying into practice this definite principle for which my party stands."

G. O. P. Platform Scraped.

In this prepared text, the democratic presidential candidate made no direct reference to the equalization provision of the McNary-Haugen bill, which President Coolidge branded unconstitutional.

Governor Smith charged that the republicans had violated their platform promise, had deceived the farmer, and had done "nothing whatever to contribute in the slightest degree to relieve the distress or promote the welfare of the farmers."

"As far as the president himself is concerned," he said, "Senator Norris (republican independent of Nebraska) sums it all up in a few words: 'He stood against congress in the measures that they offered but made no constructive suggestions himself, even the exhaustive study he claims the administration gave the problem.'"

Answers Questions.

Governor Smith wound up his first put to him in newspaper advertisements by ten Omaha citizens, declared by democratic leaders to be republicans. The inquiries sought to draw him out on certain phases of the farm, prohibition and tariff questions.

The governor said it had been suggested to him that the republican national committee had probably had for the advertisements, but he declared he did not believe that. He proposed that if the men who signed the inquiries were not republicans, they should put the same questions to Herbert Hoover. There was tremendous applause as the democratic nominee, declaring he was not embarrassed by the inquiries, announced that he intended to fight his campaign in the open and not dodge any issues.

One of the questions put to the governor was: "How can you square your support of democratic candidates for congress pledged against liquor with what you say you do for liquor?"

People Must Decide.

"There is nothing that the president can do about liquor," Smith declared.

"All he can do is to recommend to congress, and he can assume the leadership of the American people in an effort to show them that his recommendation is right. That is what I propose to do. And let the American people make the decision as they will have to do."

"How can I support a dry democratic candidate for congress?"

"That came up in the national convention, deliberately, through the report of the committee, on credentials left every democrat in the United States free to express his own individual opinion of what he thought on that subject."

Liquor Not Biggest Issue.

The next question inquired "How will your proposal for sale of liquor in a few states meet your issue of personal liberty in the other states?"

In reply to this the democratic nominee said:

"The prevention of the sale of liquor is in the exercise of police power and I have clearly showed that if a majority of people of a given state voted for the exercise of that police power in that direction, they should get it to the limit."

"On the other hand, following the well defined Jeffersonian principle of state rights, the state that does not want the exercise of that police power ought to be in a position, through a majority of the people to say so."

In reply to a query: "Do you believe that liquor is the great issue of this campaign?" the New York governor said with emphasis: "I certainly do not," and he disposed of the question, "Do you believe the country will be more prosperous with liquor or without?" by declaring that "no body, no living person, no matter how well informed, no matter how far seeing, could make any answer to that question, because there has never been liquor out of this country."

FULL TEXT OF SPEECH OF GOVERNOR SMITH

"This is my first speech of the campaign. It is, however, not a new experience to me. In the state of New York I have led the democratic party in five state campaigns."

"New York for the major part of the time for the past 30 years was a strong republican state. That in four of those campaigns I led victory in is no small part due to the fact that I talked frankly to the people of that state, in very plain and understandable language, and began tonight and continuing throughout the national campaign, I propose to continue that policy."

"The function of a political party is to ascertain the popular will on the subjects pressing the country for solution. It is the expression of that popular will that is understood by the parties, which brings about the adoption of a platform which, aside from defining fundamental issues is a promise that if entrusted with power the party will attempt the solution of these problems along the lines laid out by the declaration."

"If we accept that as true, and as a sound doctrine, then this battle for the presidency of the United States sets forth in the platforms of the two great parties."

Promise and Performance.

"In discussion of these issues it is fair to look back over the years and compare the promises with the performance, to the end that the people may have before them the record, and be able to appraise the sincerity of the platform and the party in its true light."

"The republican candidate for president in his speech of acceptance referring to the republican administration, said:

"The record of these seven and one-half years constitutes a period of rare courage and leadership in our history. Never has a political party been able to look back upon a similar period of more satisfaction."

"Here in Omaha, the center of one of the great farming regions of this country, I propose to challenge the republican record of seven years and half of the important question of farm relief."

I challenge the statement that there has been no constructive action on farm relief. I assert that there is not the slightest basis upon which the republican party can indulge in any degree of self-satisfaction, in looking back over its record of seven and one-half years, on the question of agriculture."

Violated Platform.

"On the contrary, I charge that they violated their platform promises, that they deceived the farmer, that they did nothing whatever to contribute in the slightest degree to relieve the distress or promote the welfare of the farmers of this country, posing for decades as the friends of the farmer the republican leaders have betrayed the confidence which the farmers imposed in them, forfeited every right to the allegiance or support of the agriculturalists of this country."

But immediately following the advent of the republican administration the farm problem became acute and was recognized in the republican platform of 1924, which said:

Unfulfilled Promises.

"We recognize that agricultural activities are still struggling with adverse conditions that have brought deep distress, we pledge the party to take whatever steps are necessary to bring back a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor."

"By the language of the 1924 platform, the republican party recognized the deep distress of the agricultural interests of the country. They further recognized the necessity of bringing back a balanced condition between agriculture and industry, and made a definite pledge as follows:

"The republican party pledges itself to the development and enactment of measures which will place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of economic equality with other industry to insure its prosperity and success."

"So that if today we have in this country a farm problem and a continuance of that distress it cannot be said, after a reading of the 1924 platform, that the republican party and the republican administration at Washington were without knowledge of the actual conditions."

"After seven and a half years of promise and no performance, it is significant to note the republican platform of 1928 which reads: 'The general depression in a great basic industry inevitably reacts upon the condition in the country as a whole and cannot be ignored.'"

Same Pledge as 1924.

"Here we have definitely, at least, after all these years the confession that there is a general depression in the great basic industry, and that it reacts upon the condition in the country as a whole, and that it cannot be ignored, although that is the treatment, according to the record, it has received in the last four years."

"Later on I shall deal with what their 1928 platform specifically recommends but at this point it would be interesting to read the last paragraph of the plank devoted to agriculture: 'The republican party pledges itself to the development and enactment of measures which will place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of economic equality with other industries to assure its prosperity and success.'"

"I call your attention to the fact that this is identical with the language of the 1924 platform. What became of that promise in the 1924 platform if it had to be repeated word for word in 1928? What attention should be paid to the 1928 promise if nothing was done under the 1924 promise?"

"I can imagine myself in the executive session of the republican committee on platform at the recent convention in Kansas City and I can picture for myself one delegate asking what has been done in the last four years to make good the platform of 1924. Meeting as he must with the reply that the previous platform's pledges remain unfulfilled, the suggestion that they be repeated undoubtedly upon the theory that the republican party has handed the empty plate to the farmer so often that they can probably take a chance and pass it once more."

Opinion of Party.

"That the masses are so readily seen by various expressions of opinion from members of their own party. Suffice it for the time being to sum up in the words of a distinguished senator from your own state, Senator Norris said:

"The action of the republicans at Kansas City, both as to platform and candidate for president, will be sad disappointment to every progressive citizen of the United States."

"A direct slap is administered to the farmers of the country. Their plea, admitted by everybody to be well founded, is cast aside with the usual promise of a glittering generality. The party has been in power for eight years and during all that time it has been making promises to the farmers, and the men who dominated this convention, both in the senate and outside, have fought practically every proposal of a remedy for agriculture, and with the assistance of presidential vetoes, have succeeded in frustrating all efforts at farm relief."

Insult Intelligence.

"Never have these so-called alleged presented by others; and now, after eight years of promise, they are making intelligent farmers of America by making another promise."

"This is the statement of an authority on farm conditions, who is chairman of the senate committee on agriculture. It clearly indicates that the condition has been known to the party for at least four years, and that no adequate remedy is suggested even at this time, nor has one been forthcoming during the whole period of the last two republican administrations."

President's Opinion.

"The president himself recognizes it. He is, in his message to congress in 1926, on the subject of agriculture, he said:

"The whole question of agriculture needs most careful consideration. In the past few years the government has given this subject more attention than any other and has held more consultations in relation to it than on any other subject. While the government is not to be blamed for failure to perform the impossible, it is entitled to know that they have its constant solicitude and sympathy."

Recall Popular Song.

"The farmer at this time might well recall the words of the one-time popular song: 'All I got was sympathy, but that didn't mean a thing to me.'"

"As far as the president himself is concerned, Senator Norris sums it all up in a few words. He stood against congress in the measures that they offered but made no constructive suggestion himself, even after the exhaustive study he claims the administration gave to the subject."

"He might well have added that Mr. Hoover, as the chief adviser of the last two administrations upon the subject of agriculture, assumed a direct responsibility for the hostility and inaction of the administration and continues to assume that responsibility by his fulsome endorsement of the record of Coolidge policies."

Comfort to Farmers.

"It must be a great comfort to the farmers of this country to know that the policy which gave them the sympathy and solicitude of the republican administration and gave them nothing else would be continued in the event of Mr. Hoover's election."

Particularly must this be a comfort to them when they recall that the result of the eight years of sympathy and solicitude by the republican party is thus summed up by Mr. Hoover in his acceptance speech:

"The most urgent economic problem in our nation today is in agriculture."

Fulfill Promises.

"If the promise made by the republican party in 1920 and 1924 had been fulfilled it would not be necessary for him to say today that in agriculture is the most urgent economic problem in our nation, and the occasion for the solicitude and sympathy for the plight of the farmers on the part of the republican leaders would have ceased to exist."

"What brought about all these promises of the republican party? If there was no critical condition in agriculture circles, why the promises of relief? Why the admissions in the platforms, and what led Governor McMillen, of your own state, according to newspaper reports, to threaten the republican national convention that he would lead an army of men to knock at the doors of that assembly demanding at the hands of the republican party a specific and definite solution of the farm problem? It could be nothing else except the very apparent distress of the farmers of the country."

In my speech of acceptance I took account of the suffering of agriculture. I there stated some facts and figures, not one of which has since been challenged or contradicted."

Decrease in Value.

"From 1910 to the present time the farm debt has increased by the striking sum of $10,000,000,000. The value of farm property between 1920 and 1925 decreased by $20,000,000,000."

"It would be unreasonable to expect that this great decrease in value would make itself felt only in agricultural circles. It was compelled, from the very nature of things, to have an influence on other lines of business. In 1927 there were $30 billion in mortgages, with total liabilities over $270,000,000, almost entirely in the agricultural section; as against 49 such failures in the last year of the last democratic administration. In the period since 1920 there have been almost 4,000 such failures."

"The business men's commission on agriculture in November of last year said:

"Since the war the prices of farm products have persisted in an unceasing and unfavorable adjustment to the general scale of prices of other goods and services. The value of farm land and farm property decreased heavily in the post-war deflation, and large numbers of families have lost all their property in the process."

"I repeat that the figures herein given by me as far back as the 22d of last August have neither been contradicted nor challenged."

Abundant Reason.

"According to the figures, there is abundant reason for the recognition of this crisis in American agriculture life."

Viewing it from another angle, the reports of the United States department of agriculture show that during this period of depression ten million people were driven from the farms with a net decrease, after deducting all who returned, of four million in the farm population of the nation. That means that four million American citizens were compelled to give up their chosen vocation. It meant suffering and distress in millions of families and drove the tillers of the soil into competition with the workers in the cities."

Disastrous Effect.

"It requires no very great power of imagination or understanding of the problem to be able to realize the disastrous effect on our whole social and economic fabric that must grow from a situation such as that."

"There are definite causes and reasons for this catastrophe, which, to the ordinary person, are easy of understanding. Twenty-five years ago wheat sold at approximately the same price that it brings today."

"Twenty-five years ago the farmer paid $45 for a mow; today it costs him $75."

"He paid $120 for a binder; he pays over $200 for the same implement today."

"Statistics indicate that there has been a decrease in the purchasing power of farm products of 20 per cent, as compared with the pre-war period. What other line of business in the United States could stand that?"

Fundamental Trouble.

"The great fundamental trouble with the farmer situation lies in the undisputed fact that the farmer buys in a protected market, from the hat on his head to the shoes on his feet, everything needed around the farm not produced by himself he makes his contribution to the tariff system for protection of American industries, and when he produces the crop, he is compelled to sell it in an unprotected market. In the basic cash crops the American farmer raises more than the whole domestic market can absorb."

Offer Whole Crop.

He is, therefore, compelled to offer his whole crop at the price of the surplus that is exported. Putting it in other words, the exportable surplus is offered first in the domestic market and drags down the price of the whole crop."

"It has been abundantly demonstrated that the tariff, standing alone, with respect to crops of which we have an exportable surplus, does not function. The presence of the exportable surplus in the domestic market prevents the farmer from getting the benefit of the tariff. As to these commodities, the tariff is like an engine running with no belting to connect it with the machine it is designed to move."

Under the protective system of this country we have interfered with the laws of supply and demand for the protection of industry and labor. No part of that protection has been given to the farmer on his major cash crops; and when we talk about putting agriculture on an equality with industry, we are talking primarily about the problem of making the tariff function for agriculture in the way that it functions for industry."

G. O. P. Knows This.

"The leaders of the republican party know this. Prominent members of their own party have made it perfectly clear to the leaders. President Coolidge must know it, and he must also have known that an increase in the tariff on wheat was an empty gesture. Yet the republican candidate for president says in his acceptance speech:

"An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief."

"But here makes no suggestion whatever as to how the adequate tariff is to be made to function and become effective with respect to the major cash crops. He refers to the tariff as though it really worked for the farmer. The solution has two parts. First, an adequate tariff; and, second, a method of making it function. Mr. Hoover refers to the first part and ignores the second."

Every student of the problem in the United States today is unanimous in the declaration that standing by itself the tariff is not the solution, so far as crops are concerned, of the farmer's problem. If the tariff alone is the foundation of farm relief, why not raise it some more? The solution is not as simple as that."

G. O. P. Not Frank.

"The trouble during all these years lies in the fact that the republican party has not been entirely frank with the farmer. I could go further and say they have not been honest with him. Had they been honest and frank with him, instead of extolling sympathy and promising relief through tariff and promising economic equality, they would have frankly said to the farmer that the solution lies in providing a mechanism for the control of the exportable surplus with the cost of that control imposed on the crop benefited as the republican presidential candidate discloses obvious hostility."

On that subject, the republican platform says nothing.

But its convention repudiated the minority report seeking recognition of this principle. What that means is best shown by Governor Lowden's comment:

Rescue Agriculture.

"I have urged, however, that it is the duty of the republican party to find some way to rescue agriculture from the ruins that threaten it. That, in my judgment, the convention by its platform just adopted has failed to do, and it, therefore, authorizes the withdrawal of my name from before this convention."

"It would be interesting at this time to ask the question: Did the republican candidate for president ever speak about this question of surplus crops? He did."

Refers to Surplus.

"In 1924 he wrote as follows: 'That (referring to the surplus) can only be corrected by prices low enough to make production unprofitable."

"What does he mean by that? I can spell only one thing out of that. He wants to drive enough farmers out of business to pull down the surplus crops."

"The way he wants to relieve the farmer is to destroy him."

"Again in 1925 he said: 'The fundamental need is a balancing of agricultural production to our home demand.'"

"Is that solution of the farm problem, to starve the farmer to death? To drive his prices down so low that he can have no production for his energy? Is the sweat of his brow to go for nothing and is he to be eventually driven out of agricultural pursuits?"

Not Be Good Thing.

"As to the balancing of the agricultural production to our home demand, that would not be a good thing to my way of thinking, even if you could do it. But that it cannot be done is best shown by a report from the bureau of agricultural economics, which says:

"During the last 20 years 95 per cent of the changes in spring wheat production were due to differences in yields. As a whole perhaps three-quarters of the natural variation in crop production is due to yield variations, and the balance to human control through acreage adjustments."

"That is in effect to say the solution of disposing of the surplus, advanced by Mr. Hoover is impossible, and is beyond the power of human control."

If the students of the agricultural problem understand their business, they will put their finger on the sore spot; we have discovered the primary cause of the illness in the agricultural industry and it is now for the doctor to prescribe the remedy."

Hoover Offers Tariff.

"What does Mr. Hoover offer? First, the tariff. Everybody knows, and he knows, himself, that the tariff is not effective as to the basic cash crops, without a supplemental device to make it work."

"He offers inland waterways. Very good. The democratic party is in favor of inland waterways, just as we are with us today, they would not exert sufficient influence to solve the problem."

Aid To Cooperatives.

"He suggests aid to cooperatives. I strongly believe in cooperative marketing. It is clear all right as far as it goes. I have encouraged it in my own state. In New York we have over one thousand cooperative marketing associations. With our major cash crops and with a device for taking care of the surplus at the cost of the commodity benefited, coopera-tives would be given a great opportunity for development."

"Their field is limited, however, without such a device, for the reason that when the membership alone is compelled to pay the whole cost of the attempt at stabilization, those outside the membership receive the benefits of the increased prices without bearing any of the burdens incident thereto. And the attempt at stabilization is in large measure impaired by the activities of the non-members."

"The fundamental fact is that none of these methods can function with respect to the major cash crops unless they are coupled with the control of the exportable surplus crops with cost of lifting it out of the domestic market assessed back on the crop benefited."

"Various people have attempted to misrepresent and confuse my attitude with respect to the McNary-Haugen bill. I do not propose to leave the slightest doubt in anybody's mind on that subject."

"As I read the McNary-Haugen bill, its fundamental purpose is to establish an effective control of the sale of exportable surplus with the cost imposed upon the commodity benefited. For that principle the democratic platform squarely stands, which says:

"The fundamental fact is that none of these methods can function with respect to the major cash crops unless they are coupled with the control of the exportable surplus crops with cost of lifting it out of the domestic market assessed back on the crop benefited."

Opposes Principle.

"Mr. Hoover stands squarely opposed to this principle by which the farmer could get the benefit of the tariff. What remains of the McNary-Haugen bill is a mere matter of method, and I do not limit myself to the exact mechanics and methods embodied in that bill."

"Here is a clean-cut issue, which the farmers and the voters of this country must decide. It remains but to work out the details by which this principle shall be put into effect, and I have pledged myself to name a non-partisan commission of farm leaders and students of the problem to work out these details. I shall make that appointment, if I am elected, not when I take the oath of office as president, but immediately after election; and I pledge to the farmer, and to the people of this country that no stone will be left unturned to give immediate and adequate farm relief, by legislation carrying into practice this definite principle for which my party and I stand. "The students of the agricultural problem understand their business, they will put their finger on the sore spot; we have discovered the primary cause of the illness in the agricultural industry and it is now for the doctor to prescribe the remedy."

Hoover Offers Tariff.

"What does Mr. Hoover offer? First, the tariff. Everybody knows, and he knows, himself, that the tariff is not effective as to the basic cash crops, without a supplemental device to make it work."

"He offers inland waterways. Very good. The democratic party is in favor of inland waterways, just as we are with us today, they would not exert sufficient influence to solve the problem."

Aid To Cooperatives.

"He suggests aid to cooperatives. I strongly believe in cooperative marketing. It is clear all right as far as it goes. I have encouraged it in my own state. ## Rumor That Carnes Was Seen Sunday in North Carolina, In California Tuesday

Fugitive Also Recognized in Syracuse, N. Y., Monday, According to Report Reaching Atlanta Tuesday.

Modesto, Calif., September 18.—(AP) The search for Clinton S. Carnes, missing treasurer of the Baptist Home Mission board, of Georgia, which alleged defalcations are estimated at $1,000,000, shifted to this vicinity today.

The search started when E. C. Austin, manager of the Gustin branch of the Bank of Italy, notified the state criminal identification department at Sacramento that he had given a ride in his automobile last Saturday morning to a man whose appearance was identical with that of Carnes.

"When I saw Carnes' picture in the papers this morning I immediately recognized him as the man I picked up," Austin said. "The stranger was exceedingly well dressed. In fact, he looked like a million dollars. He carried a cane and wore gloves. He said he hadn't slept for a long time and appeared to be worn out."

Austin said the man told him he wanted to stay from cities and main highways. He said he was a writer living at Carmel and was bound for Byron Hot Springs. He carried a brief case and wore glasses. "He looked so well dressed and acted so much like a gentleman," Austin said, "that I did not ask him if he wanted money or a meal for fear of offending him."

REPORTED SEEN IN N. CAROLINA.

Reports that Clinton S. Carnes was seen in widely separated cities in the South Sunday and Tuesday shifted the hunt for the fugitive treasurer of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, sought in alleged pecuniary excess to total more than a million dollars.

The Atlanta police were investigating a tip that Carnes was seen driving the highway near Brevard, N. C., Sunday afternoon which came almost simultaneously with the report that the missing man also had been sighted in Syracuse, N. Y., on Monday, but had eluded pursuers, which included a former friend who was positive of the identity of the man.

The report from North Carolina quoted V. B. McCaha, former sheriff of Transylvania county, as saying that he encountered the man believed to be Carnes when the latter stopped him on the highway Sunday afternoon. Carnes was headed toward Greenville, S. C., McCaha said.

Confirmed Suspicions.

The former sheriff declared that when he saw the man he was certain that it was Carnes, that he rushed into town and looked again at the photographs of the fugitive and was more positive in his identification. McCaha returned to the highway to seek traces of the man but found none.

A close check of strangers in Greenville failed to reveal a trace of Carnes, it was reported, but the search of that city and others in the vicinity is being continued.

As the hunt for the missing man was being conducted, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin continued his efforts to raise a reward fund of $10,000 which he started Monday by a contribution of $250 of his personal funds. A large reward for the apprehension of Carnes will spur the search for the missing man and hasten his capture, Solicitor Boykin believes.

Contributions P. In.

Meanwhile officials of the mission board continued to receive contributions from all over the Southern Baptist convention. These gifts came in response to an appeal made two weeks ago by Dr. Arch C. Cree, acting executive secretary of the board, who called on the church membership for special aid to assist the then paralyzed treasury of the board.

"The response has been especially noble," Dr. Cree said Tuesday. "A great many churches did not get any collections at all a week ago Sunday but most all received something this last Sunday and we are well satisfied with the results of our appeal."

Though the amount received was far below the sum necessary to assure operations of the board for an indefinite period enough was donated to care for the present emergency, Dr. Cree said. All August salaries of the mission board, including the office force and field workers, have now been paid, Dr. Cree asserted.

As he prepared to leave today for Rochester, Minn., where he will be at the bedside of a son undergoing a major operation Saturday, Chief of Police James L. Beavers Tuesday made public the transcript of a statement taken by the Los Angeles police from Miss Lois Griffin, Hapeville girl, whose efforts to break into motion pictures were financed by the fugitive Carnes.

Lois Griffin's Statement.

Following is the statement taken by Detective Lieutenant W. C. Allen, of the Los Angeles department, and forwarded to Chief Beavers by air mail:

Q. What is your name?
A. Lois Griffin.
Q. Where do you reside?
A. 1717 North Normandie.
Q. Have you a phone there?
A. No, I haven't. There is a phone in the manager's apartment, Olympia 5307.

Q. What is your age, Miss Griffin?
A. Twenty.
Q. And Lois Griffin is your true name?
A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever used any other name?
A. None except June Gilmore (Gilmore, dropping the "e").
Q. Why was the name June Gilmore used?

A. Merely because I played in a play that I liked very well—I played under the name of June Gilmore, and I took that name, dropping the "e."
Q. What is your business, Miss Griffin?
A. Heretofore my profession was secretarial work—it is now—but I am planning on the side to play in vaudeville.

Q. Are you employed at the present time?
A. I am employed at Claude Beelman's (architect), 1019 Union Bank building, Va. 2018, under the name of June Gilmore.

Q. How long have you lived in Los Angeles?
A. Since December, 1927.
Q. And you came from where?
A. Atlanta, Ga.

Q. Was that your home?
A. Yes.
Q. For how long?
A. For all my life except the first four years.

Q. Are you acquainted with a Mrs. Louise Pope?
A. I am.

Q. And you are also acquainted with Miss Sonja Norida?
A. I am, yes.

Q. Do you know their present whereabouts?
A. I do.

Q. Will you state where they are stopping at the present time?
A. At the New St. Francis Apartment hotel, on Hollywood boulevard.

Q. When did you first meet Mrs. Pope and Sonja Norida?
A. I met Mrs. Pope personally about May, 1927. I met Sonja in November, 1927. I met Mrs. Pope in Atlanta and Sonja in New York.

Q. Where did this meeting of Mrs. Pope and you take place in Atlanta?
A. It took place in a restaurant where I was eating, and she and her husband came in. I knew her husband before I met her, because he was employed at the same firm as I.

Q. When did you next meet Mrs. Pope?
A. She called me at my office a few days after that and invited me to her home, and I kept on persisting, and then I saw her a couple of times downtown, and then we finally got a luncheon engagement together, and at that time I confided in her my desire to go into a career of some kind, and I was particularly interested in the movies.

Q. Now, Miss Griffin, you go right ahead in your own words and state what has happened since your telling Mrs. Pope of your desire to enter the movies, up to the present day.
A. Mrs. Pope asked me, if she furnished the money, would I go alone, and I thought yes, but how nice it would be to have a companion, and I said: "If I am to work I would like to know how—have some one handle the business end of the proposition," and she didn't at that time say to me anything particularly about sharing in the profits. Later that was mentioned, however—I will come to that in a second. Then for a few days she kept telling me: "Well, I know of a person to whom I can go," and the next day it was the same story, and finally she did find somebody, and she says: "I have made an appointment for you to meet him in his office." I filled that appointment around 5 o'clock one afternoon, when Mrs. Pope was present, and I came to find out that it was the same Mr. Carnes I knew in his office in the Henley building, and that it was the same Mr. Carnes that I had known previously in the Wynne-Clanton building. I proceeded to tell him in about the same words that I had told Mrs. Pope my desire to go into pictures. I saw Mr. Carnes a few days after that, and it was about the same thing, and before I knew it all arrangements were made, Mrs. Pope planning to go as business manager. I went to Mr. Carnes' office one afternoon at his request—it was some time in July, 1927—and he gave me $375 in cash. He gave me the balance the following day, $125—making a total of $500. I had that in cash when I left for New York, and it was verbally agreed that if no large sums of money were made these moneys would not have to be paid back. (Name deleted), Mrs. Louise Pope and myself left Atlanta by train to Savannah July 24, 1927, arriving in New York on July 28, 1927. Mrs. Pope and I stopped at the hotel which is across the street from the Martinique, (name deleted) stopping at the Martinique. After a few days' stay there, the three of us took a trip to Boston, staying over the week-end. All of us stopped at the Statler hotel there. Returning to New York, Mrs. Pope and I stopped at the Park Central hotel, and (name deleted) returning to Atlanta.

Q. Did you stop at the same hotel while in Boston?
A.—Yes, Mrs. Pope and I together and (name deleted) alone. After staying, etc., I secured work at the studios, playing successfully several bits. I earned a little money but used it for wardrobe and personal expenses for myself. While I was in New York I heard from Mrs. Carnes directly none at all. Mrs. Pope on a few occasions told me that she had letters and wires from him but I never saw them. I have seen money orders as high as to the amount of $450, coming from Mr. Carnes, in the name of Mrs. Pope. I have seen money orders coming to Mrs. Pope on more than one occasion. During my stay in New York I received no money direct from Mr. Carnes. However, all my wants were satisfied by Mrs. Pope. From the statement I have at hand, presented to me by Mr. Carnes before leaving Atlanta in November, 1927, I find the amount of $2,577.66 sent to us in New York by Carnes. This amount includes the $500 Mr. Carnes gave me in cash before leaving Atlanta in July. In November, about a couple of weeks before I was planning to return to Atlanta, there came upon the horizon Sonja Norida. I went to Washington for a few days preceding Mrs. Pope, en route to Atlanta. Before it was over, however, I had returned to New York again, and to Washington again—Mr. Carnes believing all the while that I was playing in a Tiffany-Stahl production there. Mrs. Pope had asked me to stick to this story. I left Washington alone, arriving in Atlanta alone, and stayed in seclusion for four or five days, on the orders of Mrs. Pope. I think she was there all the while. I called Mr. Carnes, at Mrs. Pope's suggestion, on Saturday afternoon, but was unable to see him until the following Monday.

I gave him a favorable report of everything that had happened, and during one of our conferences the subject of contracts was brought up. It took quite some time for all of us to come to some understanding regarding contracts, but finally a satisfactory one was reached, and I entered into an agreement with Mr. Carnes, as per my contract dated in Atlanta November 30, 1927. Since that time Mr. Carnes has been prompt in sending me my check for $250 each month, as per my contract—up to and including July, 1928. Upon receiving a letter from him regarding my future plans, and not wishing to comply with his request that I meet him in some city between here and Atlanta, either New Orleans, Houston, Texas, or Chicago, I immediately wrote and asked him if it would be satisfactory for me to make a trip to Atlanta. He answered my letter on August 15, saying: "Will let you know Saturday; will be out of city a few days," signed "C. S. Carnes." I heard no more until August 26, when I received a wire from his secretary, E. W. Pettus, asking if I had seen or heard from Mr. Carnes. I answered saying that I had not seen nor heard from Mr. Carnes since my July check, received July 3. I have seen nothing of Mr. Carnes since my departure from Atlanta in December, 1927. I know nothing of his whereabouts now, and will do all in my power to assist the police in locating him.

Q.—Since you have heard of the disappearance of Mr. Carnes, have you seen or heard from Mrs. Pope, or Sonja Norida?
A.—I have both seen and heard from Mrs. Pope and Sonja quite frequently, since hearing of Mr. Carnes' disappearance (they living only a short distance from my place in Hollywood), and was informed by Sonja recently that Mrs. Pope made a trip back to Atlanta, Ga., and only a few weeks ago was advised by Sonja that Mrs. Pope was in Atlanta. Since Mrs. Pope returned I have seen nothing of Sonja alone.
Q.—Do you know whether or not Mrs. Pope has a bank account in the city of Los Angeles?
A.—I do not, no.
Q.—Did you ever see a check that Mrs. Pope issued and asked the indorsement on same by a friend of Sonja's?

A.—I have not seen the check—Sonja merely told me about it.
Q.—We have not intimidated you in any way, or promised you any immunity or made any promises to you, whatsoever, to induce you to make any statement?
A.—Indeed not; I am glad to let you know my side of it.
CLUE TO CARNES FAILS IN SYRACUSE.
Syracuse, N. Y., September 18.—(AP)—A vain attempt to locate here a man described as resembling pictures of Clinton S. Carnes, of Atlanta, missing treasurer of the Southern Baptist home mission board, became known today.
The police were disposed to regard the report as a fake but detectives and federal agents unsuccessfully guarded a local theater where Carnes had been reported seen until last night. The clue was furnished by an agent of the department of justice who said he saw a man resembling Carnes picture on the street here and trailed him to the theater, then reported to local police.

The Court of Last Resort

THE court of last resort in business is the public.

Their decision is final.

If the public places its approval on a product, accepts it, and buys it in increasing numbers, there are good reasons for it.

And if this happens in a highly competitive field like the automobile, then there are special reasons for gratification.

Durant Motors is experiencing this very thing, and we want the world to know about it.

We started with a modest production in January—the month of motor shows, and with each showing the demand increased, until the country gained the knowledge that the Durant new models were worthy of public interest.

And this is what happened during the year:

During the first six months of 1928 the entire automotive industry—motor cars and motor trucks—produced 6.4 per cent more units than in the same period of last year.

During this same period of time Durant Motors produced 49.9 per cent more cars and trucks than in the same period of last year.

The industry as a whole produced 132,906 more cars and trucks during the first six months of 1928 than in the same period of 1927.

Durant Motors alone produced 23,000 more cars and trucks during the first six months than in the same period of last year.

Durant Motors alone scored a gain of 17 per cent of the increased production of the entire industry.

Returns from the forty-eight states of the Union show that Durant gained 20.5 per cent in registrations during the first six months of 1928 over the same period of last year.

Durant Motors is growing seven times as fast as the automotive industry itself. We appreciate this increased public confidence.

In the next few days we are going to make a newspaper announcement relative to new Durant models.

They will appeal to the public strongly for these new cars possess the features the careful buyer wants, and expects in his car today.

The public will be given a new conception of motor car value.

Your motor dollar will buy more than ever before in the size of car, in beauty of body design, in power, in appointments, in speed, in durability and accessibility, and all up-to-the-minute features.

And this statement is made with a full appreciation of what is going on in the entire automobile industry.

The name "Durant" will continue to stand for those principles in motor car designing, engineering, building and in the selling of popular priced automobiles to justify an ever-increasing demand from the public.

Knoxville Roof-top City of the SOUTH

Knoxville, a city of approximately 140,000 people, is located at a natural gateway to the Great Smoky Mountains National park, a Federal domain that is being established in the highland section between the States of Tennessee and North Carolina.

Being only thirty-five miles from the edge of the park area, Knoxville is the Mecca for tourists and nature lovers, who glory in the beauties of the Great Smokies. Excellent roads lead from Knoxville into the heart of the park area.

Seven majestic peaks in the Great Smokies rise to altitudes of more than six thousand feet, and from one of them, Mt. LeConte, the gasping climber looks out upon the summit of seven states. Eleven other peaks are almost that high. For a distance of twenty-five miles, in passing from summit to summit along one of the ranges, the altitude does not descend below 5,000 ft. This "roof-top of Eastern America" contains an amazing collection of flowers, shrubs, trees, and wild life.

Knoxville is the center of a territory that is rich in natural resources. In no other section of the United States is there to be found such a wide variety of minerals in commercial quantities as is found within 100 miles of Knoxville. Marble, coal, iron, and zinc are the chief products.

The manufacture of textiles represents Knoxville's largest industry. The annual output is valued at more than $19,000,000. Marble quarried annually in the vicinity of Knoxville has a value of approximately $6,000,000. The metal-working industry has an output of $9,000,000, while the wood-working industry has an output of $4,000,000.

Knoxville has the purest native born population of any city in the world, only 1.3% being foreign born. Negro population is 14.4%.

What the "OLD RELIABLE" means to KNOXVILLE

595 citizens of Knoxville are employees of the L. & N. R. R. and earn a yearly income of more than one million dollars. The "Old Reliable" operates about 20 passenger and 30 freight trains daily into and out of Knoxville, affording unexcelled service to the North and to the South.

AVONDALE-DECATUR STREET CAR FARE NOW FIVE CENTS

Creation of a new five-cent fare zone on the Stone Mountain line from Avondale to Decatur station is announced by the Georgia Power company. The new zone reduces the fare from Avondale to the station by three cents, since formerly passengers from Avondale were required to pay the eight-cent zone rate in force from Scottsdale to Decatur station.

ODD FELLOWS SELECT IDAHO MAN AS CHIEF

Montreal, September 18.—(AP)—Frank Martin, of Boise, Idaho, today was elected grand chief of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Mrs. Bertha Willis, of Wichita, Kan., was elected president of the Association of Rebekah assemblies. Mrs. Amelia E. Blank, of San Antonio, Texas, named vice president; Mrs. Josie Morrow, Jacksonville, Fla., secretary, and Miss Minnie Bachtel, of Canton, Ohio, treasurer.

Animal No. 3 Presented Here In Children's Simba Contest

Now, here's one you ought to know. Take a look at this picture, boys and girls under 12 years of age, and tell the name of this animal. Why, it's a lion for anybody. This is a scene from "Simba," the wild game picture made by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, which is to be shown next week at the Erlanger theater. Do you want two tickets to see "Simba?" It's just as easy as eating pie. All you have to do is to name this animal, tell what country he's a native of and what family of animals he belongs to. Then, sit down and write, in your own way, a short essay of less than 200 words telling whether the animal would make an interesting feature of our zoo at Grant park and why.

NO. 3 "SIMBA" CONTEST

1. Name of animal.
2. In what country does this species live?
3. To what family of animals does it belong?
4. Would this be an interesting animal for our zoo and why? (Essay less than 200 words.)

G. A. R. IS INVITED TO FINAL REUNION AT SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

Springfield, Ill., September 18.—(AP) Invitation to hold a final reunion in 1930 at the shrine of Abraham Lincoln in Springfield will be extended to members of the Grand Army of the Republic at their encampment in Denver this week by H. B. Davidson, past national adjutant. The next legislature will be asked to assist in defraying the expenses.

GERMAN DIRIGIBLE ON PRACTICE FLIGHT

Friedrichshafen, Germany, September 18.—(AP)—The "Graf Zeppelin," the huge dirigible in which Dr. Hugo Eckener hopes to fly across both the Atlantic ocean and the American continent, was given its first test in the air today. It ascended at 3:30 p. m. and started westerly over Lake Constance.

CURTIS TO RIDE IN PRIVATE CAR

Chicago, September 18.—(AP)—Senator Curtis, the republican vice presidential nominee, came into Chicago today to board the private car finally placed at his disposal by the republican national committee for his campaigning.

"Advance" was the name of the private car and the senator did advance almost immediately. After less than two hours in the city he set out for Henry, Ill., where he speaks later today and for the west, where he intends to talk farming to the farmers. Senator Curtis was informed that several brief stops had been added to his trip across Illinois and Iowa today and tonight. Coming here from Evansville, Ind., where he spoke last night, the senator said he was feeling "fit" for the strenuous two weeks campaigning through the northwest. In Indiana he found the Hoosiers as politically bent as ever. There were signs of some intricate politics in the meeting at Evansville.

Governor Jackson sat at the speaker's table at a luncheon attended by all of the Indiana republican candidates but he was the only man not called upon at the table. None of the Hoosier republican leaders would comment on the apparent slight to Governor Jackson. The governor was recently tried on a charge of conspiracy to offer a bribe. He was freed after the trial started by the judge's instructions that the statute of limitations had run. Senator Curtis speaks tomorrow in Spencer, Iowa.

RICH LIQUOR MAN TELLS OF KIDNAPING

Detroit, September 18.—(AP)—The name of Samuel Low, millionaire president of the Carling Brewing company, of London, Ontario, today was added to the long list of victims of Detroit extortionists.

Low, his attorney, Major J. H. Clark, of Windsor, reported to local police, was kidnaped September 8 near Windsor and held prisoner for $35,000 ransom, shackled to a bed in a house near Thamesville, Ont.

The brewer gained his liberty Sunday night without paying the ransom but after guarantees had been exacted that he would raise the money. Nothing was given out regarding the case until after an unsuccessful attempt by Detroit police yesterday to trap the extortionists.

Low had been instructed to deliver the $35,000 to a taxicab driver he was to meet in the lobby of a local hotel. Another man who was substituted for Low by police met the driver, delivering to him a dummy package, while detectives stationed in the place followed the driver. As the latter reached the street he jumped into a car and eluded his pursuers in the heavy traffic.

Following collapse of the rise, Low was said to have left for Toronto to confer with provincial officials regarding the next steps to be taken in the case.

The conference at Toronto was expected to result in some definite plan of action whereby crown authorities and Detroit police could cooperate in an effort to stamp out the gang, members of which have been preying upon wealthy liquor operators and others in the district over a period of more than two years.

MEXICAN CHURCHES ORDERED OPENED

Mexico City, September 17.—(AP)—Orders to open to the public all churches that are closed were issued tonight to the governors of all states by Emilio Portes Gil, secretary of the interior, with the approval of President Calles.

This does not mean the resumption of religious services by priests or settlement of the religious question. Most Catholic churches throughout the republic have been open to the public ever since the religious laws were put into effect, but all have been without the services of priests, who were withdrawn by orders of the Mexican episcopate.

SUPPLIES LOADED ON BYRD'S SHIP

Norfolk, Va., September 18.—(AP)—Equipment and supplies for the Byrd Antarctic expedition were being loaded here today aboard the Norwegian whaler C. A. Larsen. The supplies had been assembled here by Captain Anders Williams, Norwegian consul and local agent for the expedition.

Crating of the four airplanes to be used on the expedition has been completed under the direction of Byrd's pilots. Commander Richard E. Byrd, who heads the expedition which will make a thorough study of the vast Antarctic regions and who arrived here yesterday, two days before he was expected, will supervise the loading of the Larsen.

The big whaler moved from the Seavall's Point pier, where she took on coal cargo for use of other ships of the whaling fleet in south Georgia, to the naval base shortly before noon today. The Larsen is an oil burner and said to be the largest whaler afloat. Her skipper is Captain Oscar Neilson.

The second ship of the fleet that will carry equipment for the expedition to the south is the Eleanor Bolling, formerly the whaler Chelsea, renamed in honor of Commander Byrd's mother. The Bolling left New York yesterday and was due at Hampton Roads today. She is to take on such material as it may be found impracticable to put aboard the Larsen in addition to the main store of foodstuffs. The Sir James Clarke Rose, another whaler ship, which left Sandefjord, Norway, on September 4, will arrive in Hampton Roads during the week to pick up the remainder of the expedition's property.

Captain Neilson today expected to sail about 7 o'clock tonight and the Bolling to sail within the next two days. The City of New York, a steamship of bark rig and a veteran of Arctic exploration, formerly the Samson, the first of the fleet to start south, left New York three weeks ago, and has reached Panama.

The Bolling was delayed on her run from New York to Hampton Roads by engine trouble, it was reported today, but it was expected she would make port under her own power.

Commander Byrd planned to leave Norfolk for New York tomorrow aboard the Savoia, the private yacht of Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, which is to be docked at the base on her arrival here.

PRIVATE C. K. SLACK, FAMED WAR HERO, HONORED AT G. M. A.

Private Clayton K. Slack, famous hero of the world war, was the guest of the Georgia Military academy at breakfast Tuesday morning and made a short talk to the students at the College Park institution. Private Slack was accompanied by Joseph Fulco, guest conductor of Low's Capitol theater orchestra, who played several violin solos.

During his engagement in Atlanta Private Slack will visit the United States veterans hospital and will give them a showing of his war film "Gold Chevrans," depicting actual fighting scenes made by United States army photographers.

NEW YORK-MEXICO AIR MAIL SERVICE STARTS OCTOBER 1

Chicago, September 18.—(AP)—Direct air mail service between New York city and Mexico City will be established October 1, the National Air Transport announced today. Mail will be routed over New York-Chicago run and the Chicago-Dallas night run, connection being made at Fort Worth with the Tex Air Transport, Inc., operating the route to San Antonio. From San Antonio the route will be extended to Laredo on the border.

A NEW VICTORY SIX BY DODGE BROTHERS

SMARTER, ROOMIER, MORE COMFORTABLE

With Famed Victory Performance Made Still More Brilliant

Striking improvements in beauty, comfort and roominess, set Dodge Brothers new Victory Six apart as a distinctive and impressively attractive motor car.

Seat dimensions are more generous; cushions deeper and more luxurious; doors higher and wider; and passenger vision materially increased.

New Victory lines sweep gracefully forward to a radiator that expresses new ruggedness and power; and improved fenders further accentuate the vigorous and arresting charm of Victory Six design.

Moreover, new Victory Six construction insures many unique and vital advantages. The wide Victory chassis frame, flush with the body lines, provides a foundation for the body—which is directly mounted without sills. This remarkable construction lowers the all-important center of gravity, increases the head room, and eliminates the customary body overhang.

And as a consequence, the new Victory grips the road at the curves, travels rough pavement with incredible smoothness, obeys the four-wheel brakes instantly—yet with no discomfort to passengers. And provides a quality of pick-up, flexibility and fast flashing action that we urge you most earnestly to investigate.

ALSO DODGE BROTHERS STANDARD SIX $895

Greater beauty, comfort and convenience with speed, get-way, smoothness and dependability more remarkable than ever. Four fashionable body styles fully equipped.

12 New Instructors Added To Emory University Faculty

Names of twelve new instructors who have been added to the Emory faculty for 1923-24 were announced Tuesday by President Harvey W. Cox. In the college of liberal arts, Dr. Charles R. Hart has been elected as professor of romance languages to fill the place vacated by Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, who is devoting his entire time to the new department of fine arts. Dr. Hart holds the Ph.D. degree from Johns Hopkins and the A. B. from Williams college. Following his graduation from Williams he held a fellowship for one year at the American School of Classical Studies, in Athens, Greece. For seven years he was a member of the faculty at Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., while for the last year he has been head of the French department at Reed college, Portland, Ore. Dr. Hart is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Succeeding Dr. R. N. Owens, who has gone to George Washington university, Professor Lyle E. Campbell has been appointed as associate professor of business administration. Professor Campbell holds the M. B. A. degree from Harvard university. His teaching experience has been at Drake university and at the University of Oklahoma in the department of accounting, the subject which he will teach at Emory.

Other new instructors have been added in the college of liberal arts and the school of business administration, as follows:

Robert W. Bond (B. A. Princeton, M. S. Columbia), instructor in chemistry.
Fred K. Hardy (B. A. M. B. A., Harvard), instructor in economics.
Henry P. Miller (B. Ph. M. A., Emory), instructor in English.
Thomas A. Mitchell (B. S. Kansas Agricultural college, M. S. Colorado), instructor in physics.
William S. Redmond (B. S. M. S., Emory), instructor in biology.
Lieutenant Pierre H. Camp (Emory), assistant professor of military science and tactics.
H. Harvie Britt (B. Ph. Emory), instructor in history.

Two Replacements Necessary.
In the Lamar school of law there have been two faculty additions to take the places of Dean C. J. Hilkey, who is on a year's leave of absence for research at Harvard, and of Professor J. M. Gormack, who has resigned to join the faculty of the University of Iowa.

Harmon W. Caldwell, a member of the firm of King, Caldwell and Partridge, in Atlanta, has been elected as professor of law to teach Dr. Hilkey's courses. Mr. Caldwell will be at Emory only part time and will continue his practice. He is an A. B. graduate of the University of Georgia and holds a law degree from Harvard.

Jay J. M. Scandrett, A. B. Amherst and LL. B. Columbia, has been named as assistant professor of law. Mr. Scandrett comes to Emory recommended by Justice Stone, of the United States supreme court, who was dean at Columbia while Mr. Scandrett was a student there.

New Medical Instructor.
A new instructor in the school of medicine is Carl Garver, of Emory and the East Illinois Teachers' college, who has been elected as assistant in gross anatomy.

Several promotions and changes in rank also were announced by President Cox. Dr. Ebert Van Buren, R. S. and M. D., Emory, has been promoted from instructor to assistant professor of gross anatomy and will teach full time. Dr. George A. Williams, also an Emory graduate, will be instructor in anatomy. Professor Eugene L. Jackson, acting head of the department of pharmacology, has been promoted from assistant professor to associate professor of pharmacology.

Promotions in the college of liberal arts include Dr. W. R. Baker, from associate professor to professor of biology, and Dr. Thomas H. English, from assistant professor to associate professor of English.

ORMWOOD PARK CLUB WILL MEET THURSDAY

The September meeting of the Ormwood Park Improvement club will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Ormwood Presbyterian church. A full attendance of all enrolled members is desired and an invitation is extended to the large number of people who have recently moved into this section to enroll in this organization.

NO MORE GAS IN STOMACH AND BOWELS

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Basman's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gawking feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort. That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep," because Basman's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation, get the genuine, in the yellow package, at Jacobs' Pharmacy Co. or any other good drug store. ## ANTI-SMITH PARTY TO HOLD MEET TODAY

Macon, Ga., September 18.—(AP)—Preparations were complete today for the first state convention of the anti-Smith democratic party of Georgia, which will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the municipal auditorium here. Plans "to assure the defeat of Al Smith in Georgia in the November election" will be formulated at this meeting and immediately put into action, according to Barry Wright, Rome attorney, who is chairman of the group of 125 Georgians back of the movement.

The public was invited to attend the convention at 11 a. m. and also an open meeting in the nature of a rally that will be held in the auditorium at 8 p. m. Speakers on the program include Mrs. Mary Harris Arthur, W. C. T. U. speaker; R. L. Owen, former senator from Oklahoma, and Jeff McCorn, former attorney general of Tennessee.

"We believe a good many Georgians will be tremendously surprised after the November election," the chairman said. "Judging from the response we have received in the few days of operation as an informal organization, there are even greater numbers of voters opposed to the election of Al Smith than we have believed or hoped."

An interesting and humorous account of his tour of Europe was unfolded Tuesday by Frank H. Neely, secretary and general manager of M. Rich & Brothers company, to members of the Civitan club at the weekly meeting held at noon at the Atlanta Athletic club.

Mr. Neely told of the amusing experiences he encountered through the diverse money systems used in the countries he visited, and related other stories of how he and Mrs. Neely were initiated as full-fledged European tourists.

Financial matters, quaint customs and society were reviewed by the speaker, who has just returned from an extensive tour on which he visited England, France, Germany, Hungary and Austria.

B. Graham West wielded the gavel in the absence of Herbert Hopkins, president, who was in Florida. Mr. West selected Judge Shepard Bryan, who also has just returned from a trip to Europe, to thank the speaker in behalf of the club. Judge Bryant also told several interesting anecdotes in relating his own experiences.

Horace Russell, representing the chamber of commerce in its drive for new members, appealed for cordial and sympathetic support of the Civitans in the campaign.

FOUR ENTER RACE FOR PRESIDENCY OF STATE SENATE

Four candidates loom as aspirants for the presidency of the new state senate to be organized in 1929 following the publication of the returns showing the results of the elections in various senatorial races. The candidates mentioned for the presidency are Shelby Myrick, of Savannah; Z. B. Hyman, of Sandusville; Judge J. R. Terrell, of Greenville, and W. Cecil Neill, of Columbus.

It is understood that these four senators are in receptive moods as far as the presidency is concerned and that they have friends who are "sounding out" the members of the senate about the situation.

William S. Tyson, of McIntosh county, will be a candidate for the place as president pro tem of the senate. It was announced Tuesday by Senator Harold S. Willingham, of Cobb county, Mr. Tyson has served several terms in the lower house and recently was elected to the senate.

REPORTED ATTACK ON PREMIER RIVERA IS UNFOUNDED

London, September 18.—(AP)—A Reuter dispatch from Madrid late today stated that rumors of an attempt against the life of Premier de Rivera could not be confirmed and that it was inferred that they were unfounded.

The dispatch followed a telephone message to the news agency from its correspondent in Madrid saying that there also had been strong rumors that there was a rising in Barcelona, where the premier has been visiting.

Previous advices to the Associated Press from Spain said that the Spanish premier was at Lerida and that it would be several days before he would return to the capital.

Financial Advertisers Will Hold Convention In Atlanta Next Year

The Financial Advertising association, an organization devoted to the study of banking and financial problems, will hold its 1923 convention in Atlanta next September, it was learned Tuesday.

The announcement reached Atlanta in a wire sent from Utica, N. Y., where the association is now meeting, by Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Tourist and Convention bureau.

Approximately 300 persons are expected to attend the gathering. Eight hundred banks in all parts of the country are members of the association.

FLORIDA WILL GET NEW SUGAR PLANT

New York, September 18.—(AP)—Work will be begun immediately by the Southern Sugar company on a third sugar mill of 2,500 tons daily capacity at Canal Point, Fla., it was announced tonight by B. G. Dahlberg, president of the concern.

The company has been advised that the storm which swept Florida has done no damage to its Florida properties. The association is now meeting. Plants of the Southern Sugar company are located at Clewiston and Canal Point, and the concern owns 110,000 acres of Everglades muck land which is being drained and put into production, it was said.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION'S GREATEST CONTEST!

Here Are the RULES.....ALL the RULES

No "Mysterious" "Surprises" in This Contest. You Can Know Exactly What You Have to Do To Win BEFORE You Start—Not AFTER you START.

1. THE MOVIETEST is open to all residents in the state of Georgia and adjoining states, namely: Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee, with the exception of employees of The Atlanta Constitution and members of their families.

2. Starting September 16 and continuing each day for 30 days, with the exception of Sundays, a cartoon suggesting or representing in some way conveying the title of a motion picture will be published in The Atlanta Constitution.

3. Entrants in THE MOVIETEST will be required to correctly identify the title of the motion picture represented by each cartoon. The person or persons correctly identifying the 30 cartoons and otherwise conforming to all of the rules as published herein shall be eligible for first prize in whatever Prize List (either 1st, 2d, or 3d) such contestant is competing. The person or persons submitting the next nearest correct solutions to the 30 cartoons shall be eligible to the additional prizes in the order of the correctness of their solutions, providing conformity is made to all of the rules of THE MOVIE-TEST.

4. The last of the 30 cartoons is scheduled for publication on October 20. All solutions accompanied by the subscription requirement must be delivered to the office of The Atlanta Constitution by midnight October 22, 1928, or mailed at any postoffice in Georgia or adjoining states, bearing postmark of no later date than October 22, 1928.

5. In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more people should tie in submitting the correct or nearest correct answers to the 30 cartoons, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them, and the prizes will be awarded in order of the correctness of the answers of such contestants to a second series of 30 cartoons. If necessary to eliminate further ties as many as a third and fourth series of 30 cartoons each will be presented, after which, should any ties exist for any award each tying contestant will be given a duplicate prize.

6. To qualify for a prize in THE MOVIETEST, each contestant must qualify his set of 30 answers with either 1, 2 or 3 new six months' subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution. Contestants intending to qualify for a prize in the first Prize List will be required to submit three new six months' subscriptions; contestants intending to qualify for a prize in the second Prize List will be required to submit two new six months' subscriptions; contestants intending to qualify for a prize in the third Prize List will be required to submit one new six months' subscription.

7. In Atlanta and suburbs, and all towns outside of Atlanta where The Atlanta Constitution has carrier or dealer delivery, contestants will not be required to collect any money. In towns and on rural routes where The Constitution cannot be delivered by carrier or dealer, the paper will have to be sent by mail, and contestants will be required to collect $5.00 for each new six months' subscription, remitted in the form of money order, check or registered letter.

8. Any person upon entering THE MOVIETEST agrees to accept as final the decision of The Atlanta Constitution upon any or all questions that may be raised in the conduct of THE MOVIETEST and in the making of awards.

9. All answers, properly qualified as to the subscription requirement, must be either brought or sent to The Movietest Editor, The Atlanta Constitution, on or before midnight, October 22, 1928, or must bear a postmark not later than October 22.

10. For each additional new six months' subscription over and above the requirement for each Prize List, a contestant is privileged to submit an additional set of 30 answers. In other words, a contestant would be permitted to submit two sets of answers for the Third Prize List if the answers were accompanied by two subscriptions, whereas, a contestant competing for a prize in the First Prize List would be required to submit four subscriptions in order to submit two sets of answers.

11. Any contestant is privileged to compete for an award in any one or all three of the Prize Lists, and the contestant may win an award in each Prize List. However, no contestant can win more than one prize in any individual Prize List.

12. A new subscriber is one who is not now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution in any form, has not done so within the past sixty days, and the subscription subscribed for is not to directly or indirectly take the place of The Constitution now being delivered to someone else either now or during the life of the contract. All contract subscribers must be financially responsible for the contract. All orders will be verified and subject to the acceptance of The Constitution. The price of the daily and Sunday delivered by carrier is 20c per week, or 90c per month, the carrier making the collections weekly or monthly, as may be agreed upon. Where the paper must go by mail, the rate is $5.00 for six months, paid in advance. The decision of The Atlanta Constitution with reference to the acceptance of the contract subscriptions must be considered final and conclusive, without argument, as well as all other matters pertaining to this contest; and participants, by sending in their answers or subscriptions, either or both, agree to accept the decision of the contest manager or The Atlanta Constitution as conclusive and final.

PROGRAM PLANNED BY MEN'S COUNCIL

Publication of the civic program to be sponsored by the men's council, recently organized unit of the Georgia League of Women Voters, was made Tuesday by Dr. T. H. Jack, Emory university, chairman of the organization. The platform is being broadcast throughout the state in connection with a membership campaign to fill the ranks of the men's council.

Following is an outline of the program:

To create: 1. A scientific attitude in politics. 2. An opportunity for progressive thinkers to unite in a movement against ignorance and indifference in politics.

To give out information on: 1. The modern government, such as the short ballot, proportional representation, election of policy-determining officials, appointment of administrative officials, modern registration and election laws, reorganization of administrative departments, modern tax system, equality of voters. 2. Getting out the vote.

To establish: 1. Connections with the universities and colleges in order to use their researches in political science, making them accessible to the public in readable form. Business is using scientific research. Let us not waste our universities. 2. Cooperation with high schools and other educational centers in working out practical courses in citizenship. 3. Contact with newspapers throughout the state.

To provide: 1. Citizenship schools. 2. Programs for study classes, e. g. "Studies in Citizenship." 3. Lectures on government. 4. Registration charts. 5. The Georgia voter: This is a monthly publication which carries political information from a non-partisan standpoint and a summary of national and state legislation. It presents facts which may aid members in making their own decision. 6. Headquarters with a half-time director and editor and assistants continually working to carry out the whole program.

The council is composed of the following members: Charles Adamson, Cedarstown; Robert C. Alston, Atlanta; Dr. W. H. Cox, Emory university; Dr. Spright Dowell, Macon; Lawton

B. Evans, Augusta; Dr. W. D. Farry, Rome; Walter A. Harris, Macon; M. M. Hopkins, Savannah; Judge A. B. Lovett, Savannah; J. R. McCain, Decatur; Dr. J. H. T. McPherson, Athens; Cheshire Nash, Savannah; Dr. H. J. Pearce, Gainesville; J. Carroll Payne, Atlanta; Dr. William F. Quillian, Macon; Chancellor C. M. Snelling, Athens; Jerome Jones, Atlanta.

BOATMAN FINDS RICHARDS' BODY IN CHATTAHOOCHEE

At a point half a mile below the spot where he was thrown into the Chatahoochee river Sunday afternoon, the body of Waldo Richards, 14, was found late Tuesday afternoon by Joe Broover.

Broover found the body along the edge of the river as he was coming upstream in his motor boat. He picked up the remains and they were taken to the undertaking parlors of Barclay and Brandon, who will announce funeral arrangements later.

Young Richards, who lived at 782 Curran street, was on the river in a small craft with a companion, Lewis Robinson, 15, of 376 1/2 Decatur street, near the Bolton bridge when the boat overturned, throwing both boys into the swift current. Robinson managed to swim to shore and ran to the home of E. J. McGill, near the scene of the accident, and told of the tragedy.

RICHARD FLORENCE INDICTED BY JURY FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Richard Florence was indicted Tuesday by the Fulton county grand jury on charges of involuntary manslaughter growing out of the death of C. Earl Selridge, of 220 Luckie street. Selridge died as the result of a fall to the pavement said to have been caused by a blow from Florence at the corner of Walton and Forsyth streets, according to police. Records at the police station show that Florence, who lives at 245 1/2 Bankhead avenue, claims that he struck Selridge when the latter attempted to hold him up.

Machinists Hear Wharton Laud Five-Day Week Plan

With machine production in American industry approaching the maximum output, there is grave danger of glutting world markets unless labor is put on the five-day week plan, according to a statement Tuesday by A. O. Wharton, president of International Association of Machinists, which opened its quadrennial convention at the Biltmore hotel Monday. The meeting, attended by more than 400 delegates from all quarters of America, will continue in daily session throughout the week.

In addition to Mr. Wharton, a member of the United States railroad board under the Wilson administration, other nationally known labor leaders attending the convention include James O'Connell, who was president of the association for 19 years and is now head of metal trades department, American Federation of Labor, and William H. Johnston, who served the association as president for 14 years.

Green Speaks Today. The high spot in today's program will be the arrival of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who is scheduled to address the meeting during the day. Mr. Green will spend several days as a guest of the meeting, it was announced.

Following the morning meeting Tuesday the visitors were entertained at a barbecue at the Southern railway shops here, known as the "Cradle of the Association," since it was here that the organization was formed in 1888.

Tuesday afternoon the party formed a motorcade, proceeding to Stone Mountain for a view of the Confederate memorial carving. With regard to the five-day week, one of the most important subjects to come before the convention, Mr. Wharton said that "increasing production and the necessity to meet resulting unemployment is justification for the step."

"American factories, equipped as they are, cannot operate 300 days a year without producing a surplus stock of goods, unmarketable either in this or foreign countries. This is also the opinion of Secretary of Labor Davis," Mr. Wharton said.

Figures were quoted to the effect that from 10 to 12 per cent of American labor is continually out of employment.

The woman's auxiliary of the association is meeting at the Biltmore under direction of Mrs. May Penke, of Denver, Col., president for 15 years past.

Emmett Quinn, president of the Atlanta lodge No. 1, the parent lodge about which the international association grew, is chairman of the local committee on convention arrangements.

The convention visitors have been invited to attend the regular meeting of the Atlanta lodge Thursday night at the Labor temple here.

The meeting closes Sunday with a memorial service for the dead, called for 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Baptist church, corner of Peachtree and Cain streets.

MRS. K. L. MAUGHAM TELLS LIONS' CLUB OF WAR EXPERIENCE

A woman's part in the great war was told in dramatic fashion to the Lions club Tuesday, when Mrs. Kitty L. Maugham recounted her experiences as a worker in the British garages and munition plants and as an ambulance driver and chauffeur in war-torn France.

Mrs. Maugham ranked as a sergeant-major, 200th company, army service corps. She was wounded and gassed in action and four times was decorated for bravery.

Mrs. Maugham, who is a special agent for the Sun Life Assurance company, of Canada, has a daughter, Miss Nonnie Maugham, who is student at Girls' high. She stated that she came to America in the hope of avoiding future wars and to save her daughter from undergoing the things which she endured.

Not only did Mrs. Maugham tell of her personal experiences, but also told how almost all the British women were forced to take over men's jobs in order that the fight could be carried on.

LYNCH CITY HALL BID OPPOSED BY RAGSDALE

Offer of the S. A. Lynch, Inc., to lease the present city hall site Tuesday received the official ban of Mayor L. N. Ragsdale, who declared the tender of $3,275,000 for a period of 99 years "is not worthy of consideration."

The Lynch interests made the proposal through Y. F. Freeman, and the bid was referred to the special city hall committee headed by Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, for a recommendation. Mr. McCutcheon announced he would refer the paper to the committee at a meeting to be held in the next few days. The body will be called by Chairman McCutcheon.

Mr. Freeman stated that no plans have been perfected for the site, but it was reported in city hall circles that an improvement valued at between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 had been considered.

Mayor Ragsdale said the city had declined better offers than the one received by Lynch at its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday afternoon. It was the only one received when bids were asked on a lease proposition offered by the city.

"I feel that the city could not accept the offer as made by the Lynch interests," the mayor said. "We have received better offers than that before, and I could not recommend acceptance of the bid offered to council Monday afternoon."

Members of the special city hall committee declined to discuss the matter prior to the meeting of the committee.

STUDENTS PREPARE FOR SPELLING-BEE TO BE HELD AT FAIR

With the announcement Sunday of the annual statewide spelling-bee to be held Monday, October 1, at the Southeastern fair, hundreds of students throughout the state are preparing for the contest and many inquiries have been received at the Southeastern fair, according to Oscar Mills, secretary and manager.

Plans for a Fulton county contest to determine the county representative will be discussed at a meeting of county school officials next Saturday, according to Jere A. Wells, Fulton county school superintendent. The local contest will be held some time during the week of September 24, it was learned Tuesday afternoon.

A cash prize of $100 will be given to Georgia's champion speller and 10 other prizes to a total of $250 will be given to the best spellers in the state.

Each county in the state may send one representative, either boy or girl, to be chosen by the county superintendent by a competitive method to secure the strongest candidate for state

Crammed so full of cream, it costs only 10¢ a month

Some men buy Listerine Shaving Cream because of its obvious economy—118 inches of cream in the big white tube, more than enough for 157 shaves, easily a five-months' supply, sells for 50¢.

Others appreciate its supreme quality so much, value so highly the beneficial effects of its costly ingredients, that they would gladly pay much more if they had to. What's a half-dollar in a man's life, if he can trade it for five months of the finest shaving comfort he has ever experienced!

Buy your first tube today at any good drug or department store. Tomorrow, after you have tried this new-type beard-softener and skin-conditioner just once, you will forget that there ever was a shaving problem.

End Shaving Friction

Now—a velvety film of glycerine to smooth the path of the razor

ACROSS the microscopic peaks and hills which hold each hair, up and down the furrows of your face, you drag a piece of steel pressed close to the skin. Pull... scrape... rasp... Is it any wonder that tender tissues rebel at the harshness and heat of this friction; that shaving is a daily torture, dreaded though endured!

Science has long pondered this evil of friction in shaving, and Listerine Shaving Cream now offers the solution. At the cutting line of each hair, this amazing new cream deposits the merest shadow of glycerine, approved by dermatologists for cosmetic lubrication.

The effect is instantaneous. The razor slides instead of sticking. And how it whisks the whiskers off! Quick. Clean. Smooth.

Each hair has been drenched with moisture and softened by dense, billowy lather. The skin has been lubricated to lessen razor resistance. And even though tiny nicks and cuts are thus practically eliminated, the cream contains the antiseptic essential oils of Listerine to defeat infection.

There is no need for finger-rubbing or hot towels or lotions. Every shave is quick and smooth. And instead of smarting or burning, your face feels fine when you've finished. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

Coming to the Erlanger.

For those who go to motion pictures for something else besides mere entertainment, "Sheba," coming to the Erlanger theater Monday night, September 24, and twice daily thereafter at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock, is earnestly recommended. The regular seat sale will begin Thursday morning and tickets may be had both at the Erlanger theater box office and at the branch office in Phillips & Crow Piano company, at Peachtree and Ellis streets.

Loew's Capitol.

Private Clayton K. Slack, one of the greatest heroes of the world war, is appearing this week at Loew's Capitol theater with his amazing picture, "Gold Chevrans," as the headliner on the vaudeville bill. Private Slack shows the only authorized official war pictures taken of the actual fighting, by United States army photographers. The feature picture attraction is "Home James," with the ubiquitous Laura LaPlante in a happy role.

Howard.

Screenland's red-haired "It" girl, better known as Clara Bow, is seen in her latest Paramount picture, "The Fleet's In," at the Howard theater this week. "Steps and Steppers," a jazzy Public show, is the production staged over and presented by the able Ray Zolt, included in the cast with Ray and the boys are Stanley House, late featured comedian of George White "Scandals"; the Manhattan Steppers, a talented and mixed ensemble of dancers; Homay Bailey, a little lady who really knows how to sing a popular song, and Hazel Jones, winner of the Constitution-Howard personality contest.

Metropolitan.

seen, heard and felt in "The Whip," the Metropolitan's feature attraction this week. The crash of the London Express and the stirring finish of a good horse race, greatly enhanced with sound effects, makes this one of the thrill sensations of the year. The cast is notable, including Ralph Forbes, Dorothy Mackall, Lowell Sherman and Anna Q. Nilsson.

Rialto.

"Caught in the Fog," featuring two capable and popular stars of the silver sheet, May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel, whose destinies have been so peculiarly interwoven with those of talking pictures, is presenting patrons of the Rialto theater with another outstanding treat in talking pictures. The popular duo are starred together for the first time in "Caught in the Fog." A big-time bill of Vitaphone vaudeville also is featured in addition to the Movietone news.

Loew's Grand.

Lionel Barrymore and May McAvoy are back in Atlanta again this week at Loew's Grand theater in "The Lion and the Mouse," the dramatic hit based on Charles Klein's famous novel. This is offered with 50 per cent talking features and is one of the greatest hits of this kind offered recently.

Ponce de Leon.

"Love Me and the World Is Mine," a delightful drama with a beautiful love theme interwoven, is today's screen offering at Swint and Davis Ponce de Leon theater, popular community playhouse at Ponce de Leon avenue and Boulevard. Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry, the latter a native of Atlanta, play lead roles in this strong picture, which the management expects to attract heavy attendance. That wonder of the films, Clara Bow, struts on the screen Thursday in "Ladies of the Mob." Clara always keeps 'em in.

Cameo.

Glenn Tryon and Patsy Ruth Miller are at the Cameo today in "Hot Heels" and you may rest assured that it is all snap and pep, for when this pair make a picture the blues chase elsewhere. "Hot Heels" is said to be another hit in the same class with "Painting the Town."

Alamo No. 2.

A light, exhilarating story of young married life is "Six Stockings," the universal Jew to starring Laura LaPlante, which will open at the Alamo theater No. 2 today. John Harron plays opposite the golden-haired star, while the supporting cast includes Miss Hulan, William Austin, Tompe Pigot, Marcelle Daly, Ruth Cherrington, Heinie Conklin and Burr McIntosh. Wesley Ruggles directed.

Empire.

Lounger and thriller and gay romance are to be had at the new Empire theatre, today when "A Girl in Every Port" with Victor McLaglen is to be shown on the silver screen. In addition to the star of "What Price Glory" fame, the cast includes eight leading ladies, representing various types of beauty from Amsterdam to Panama.

SALVATION ARMY HARVEST FESTIVAL BEGINS SATURDAY

Atlanta Salvation Army units will unite in a harvest festival celebration beginning Saturday and continuing through the following two weeks, it was announced Tuesday by Colonel Alfred A. Candler, chief secretary. The season is marked by special offerings for home missions by farmers who support the army's religious work, to be auctioned off to city Salvationists and friends at the conclusion of the festival.

Principal events of the harvest festival will take place at the 600 Lawton street chapel September 22-24; at 779 Bankhead avenue and 164 Carroll street September 29-October 1, and at 54 Ellis street October 7-9. Colonel Walter Peacock, field secretary for the south, will conduct the first Sunday service of the festival with the support of a section of the staff band.

Fred Fair, Impeccably Attired, Tells Story Coldly, Calmly

His eyes as cold as the stone which marks his victim's grave, Fred Fair, on the witness stand in Judge John D. Humphreys' division of the criminal court, Tuesday told to a jury of 12 of his peers the story on which he hoped to escape the electric chair for the killing of Patrolman J. E. McDaniel.

But though the jurors leaned forward in their chairs, eager to catch every word from the fast-moving lips of the accused Fair, there were those back in the spectators' seats to whom the story seemed far more important—those morbidly curious murder trial fans to whom this world is just one man's fight for his life after another. "They never miss one," a veteran bailiff reported as he glanced to an aged couple, evidently man and wife. She was fanning herself, seeking relief from the heat of the overcrowded courtroom. The man was leaning forward, craning his neck to see the accused slayer and holding his hand to his ear that he might not miss even the slightest intonation.

Familiar Figures Present. They were all there, the familiar figures at every murder trial. "A widely-heralded murder trial never fails to pack 'em in," the veteran bailiff reported. "See that old woman over there. I know her. She's 'Aunt Sarah' to half the residents of south Georgia and she'll be here at the next month writing nieces and nephews and telling them all about this. It is the event of her life. Whether she ever heard of the accused or the victim makes no difference. It is all the same to her. She must get all the facts and relate them to the folks downstate. Covering murder

SWITCH IN BABIES IS BASIS OF SUIT

Detroit, September 18.—(P)—A few moments' confusion in a hospital here five years ago, that changed the destiny of the life of a two-week-old child and gave rise to a mystery which never has been solved, was discovered today in circuit court.

The incident which may mean the separation forever of a father from his son forms the basis of a $200,000 suit brought by William C. Greatrix, Detroit, against the Evangelical Deaconess hospital for the loss of his child.

Nurse Tells Story. Testifying in the trial today, Mrs. Purcell Vernier, the nurse who gave Greatrix's baby to Alfonso Vlemminck, Belgian immigrant, in the belief that she was placing the infant in the hands of its father, told of the tragic incident.

It was in September, 1923, that the mistake occurred. She had been on a vacation, the nurse recalled. While she was away the Greatrix baby was taken to the hospital for an operation following the death of its mother at its birth. About that time a son was born in the hospital to Eva Vlemminck, unwed mother. Then Mrs. Vernier returned. She received from two doctors an order for discharge of the Greatrix baby, she testified. A few moments later a man hurried at the hospital and said he had come for his baby. Mrs. Vernier did not ask his name but gave him the Greatrix baby, believing he was Greatrix, who in the meantime was returning his wife's body to Toronto, Ont., her former home, for burial.

Child Never Seen. The man who, it later developed, was Vlemminck, left with the baby. The child was never seen after that. Two days after the incident Greatrix returned and asked for his child. He was given the Vlemminck baby, which he immediately declared was not his own.

Vlemminck, found and brought to the hospital, said he had given the baby to some passing motorists bound for a city in Pennsylvania. He said he did not ask their names. Greatrix, seeking damages after five years of exhaustive search for his son, charges neglect on the part of the hospital. This is denied by hospital authorities, who also insist they are not subject to liability because the hospital is a charitable institution.

PHILADELPHIA LEGGER TELLS OF POLICE GRAFT

Philadelphia, September 18.—(P)—The first break in the silence of bootleggers who "paid until it hurt" has occurred, and District Attorney Monaghan, directing the grand jury investigation of alleged bribes of police, rum running and game murders, prepared today to seek additional arrests of suspected police.

Two detectives were arrested yesterday on warrants from the district attorney's office charging extortion, bribery and conspiracy. They were accused of bribing Harry Bennett, a warrant was issued also for another detective, Frederick Slider, but he could not be found.

There probably will be four or five arrests today, Mr. Monaghan said. "They also affect the police department."

What investigators said was the first break in the silence of bootleggers occurred when Faries and Bennett were taken before Judge Edwin O. Lewis.

Bernard J. McNichol, confessed bootlegger, faced them from the witness stand, and told of paying $1,500 to Faries, Bennett and Slider to escape arrest.

The hearing was continued when the defendants asked that they be given time to engage counsel and both were held in $10,000 bail.

MEDIATION BOARD ENDS ITS EFFORTS TO STOP STRIKE

Chicago, September 18.—(P)—The federal board of mediation this afternoon announced it had terminated its efforts toward bringing about an agreement between the western railroad and the trainmen and conductors unions.

Samuel E. Winslow, chairman of the federal board, issued the following statement: "In behalf of the board, the mediation proceedings have been terminated for the reason that the carriers and the employees' organizations were unable to reach an agreement."

E. P. Curtis, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and A. F. Whitney, head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said no immediate action on the strike vote could be taken and indicated the next move should come from the government.

As usual, a large part of the spectators were women, some old, some young and some who tried to look the latter though they are the former. Naturally to the women old and young, the defendant was the center of interest.

Fair, like others who have faced the fate against which he is fighting, was about the best dressed man in the courtroom. The defendant always looks his best, hoping to make an impression on the jury. This alleged slayer came to his battle for life in his predecessors' had done. His light brown hair meticulously trimmed, combed and brushed; his new suit, aged couple, evidently man and wife, his shirt and tie the apex in neatness.

All eyes were on Fair as the forces of the prosecution, commanded by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, rested suddenly. The defense was off guard. Taken by surprise, the chief of defense counsel immediately pleaded for a "few minutes for a conference" and granted. Down the aisle a lane between the crowded spectators went Fair, his two lawyers and his two guards. He brushed the clothing of his audience as he went, by face stem but eyes bright. Those in the audience whose clothing he touched undoubtedly will have more to tell the folks who did not have such a point of vantage.

In a few minutes the conference was ended and Fair went on the stand to trace the events in his life which led up to the shooting of McDaniel and which the state hopes will eventually lead up to his death in the electric chair.

DOHENY ASKS OIL SUIT DISMISSAL

Los Angeles, September 18.—(P)—Edward L. Doheny, in answer to complaints filed by Frank H. Kunkel, seeking reimbursement of upwards of $11,000,000 claimed to have been lost by stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company through the Doheny-Fall naval oil leases, asked that the suit be dismissed in federal court here yesterday.

The dismissal was sought on technical grounds. Doheny said when the question was raised of the legality of work proceeding under the leases he himself promised in continuing the work to reimburse the company for expenditures made between them and the court's decision should the case go against him and the company. Further, he set up, he did reimburse the company in the sum of $1,254,194.10 for such work when the case was lost.

Kunkel sped for an accounting to determine how much was lost to the company when the contract between Doheny and Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, which gave the company control of California naval oil reserves and contracts for the construction of a naval oil base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, were disallowed by court action.

VON HUENEFELD HOPS OFF ON TOKYO FLIGHT

Berlin, September 18.—(P)—Acting as co-pilot, Baron Ehrenfried Gunther Von Huenefeld hopped off at 1:52 a. m. today, hoping to reach Tokyo in eight days. With him were Carl under a Swedish pilot, and Paul Lenderich, mechanic.

The baron, who traveled to America as a passenger in the trans-Atlantic plane, intended to make a circuit of the world, and to join the Boeblingen aviation school. He trained there for a few weeks to obtain an immediate flying certificate which enabled him to act as second pilot on the present flight. The journey is being made in the Europa, a sister ship of the Bremen.

The baron planned to make his first stop at Sofia, Bulgaria, where he intended to meet King Boris. From there his route was to continue to Constantinople, Baghdad, Iraq; Karachi, India; Calcutta, India; Bangkok, Siam; Nanking, China, and Tokyo.

Baron Von Huenefeld was understood to be financing the enterprise himself while the Lufthansa Air Service supplied the necessary maps. Lenderich is a Lufthansa mechanic and he assisted in starting the Bremen for America from Baldonair air-drome, Dublin.

HEAVY VOTE EXPECTED AT MASS. PRIMARIES

Boston, September 18.—(P)—An unusually heavy vote was expected at the polls today as members of both major parties reacted to the most active primary campaign Massachusetts has seen in years.

Practically every important nomination within the gift of either party was the subject of spirited contest with one exception. United States Senator David I. Walsh was unopposed for re-nomination on the democratic ticket.

Elsewhere there was little unanimity and in this respect the republican party was faced with a volume of candidates for several important places seldom if ever seen here.

The contest for the republican nomination for the United States senate was three-sided. Elen S. Draper, General Butler Ames and R. Loring Young made whirlwind finishes to active campaigns.

In the congressional field the outstanding disputes were in the twelfth district, where nine candidates sought the democratic nomination for the place left vacant by the death of the late Congressman James A. Gallivan, and in the eleventh, where four aspirants were contending for the democratic place.

GREEKS BATTLE MACEDONIANS AT FRONTIER POSTS

Athens, Greece, September 18.—(P)—A pitched battle was reported in progress tonight between Greek frontier guards and Macedonian emigrants who had crossed the Bulgarian frontier at Zernova. It was said that the Greek posts had been bombed.

A battalion of troops was hastily dispatched from Drama to reinforce the frontier posts.

Miss Brumby and Mr. McGehee Wed at Quiet Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Mary Louise Brumby and Charles Christopher McGehee was solemnized with impressive dignity at 8:30 o'clock last evening at Graystone, the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. James R. Gray, on Peachtree road. The ceremony, uniting two of the most aristocratic and distinguished families in Georgia, was performed by Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of North Avenue Presbyterian church, in the presence of immediate relatives on account of a recent bereavement in the bride's family.

Preceding the marriage service a program of exquisite music was rendered by the Griffith orchestra, with harp accompaniment, and Henry Meeks sang a vocal number entitled "Because." The bridal party descended the stairway to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," the stairway being outlined with asparagus fern and decorated at intervals with white baskets holding Easter lilies. An aisle was formed from the stairway leading into the drawing room, where the altar was erected, by white pedestal baskets filled with Easter lilies and dahlias, connected with white satin ribbons. The artistic altar was arranged in one corner of the room, the background being formed by stately palms, starred in the center by a pedestal basket filled with Easter lilies and white cathedral candlesticks holding white tapers were placed on either side of the altar.

The bride and groom plighted their troth under a round canopy of white satin, studded with miniature electric lights, and showered with swainsons and Easter lilies, wedding bell of roses, Easter lilies, swainsons and valley lilies, suspended from the center of the canopy, and the bride and groom knelt upon a white satin prie-dieu, outlined with asparagus fern and decorated on either side with a cluster of valley lilies.

Miss Estelle Boynton was maid of honor, and Miss Helen Crowell, of Charlotte, N. C., was first bridesmaid. They wore gowns of white tulle, the circular skirts fashioned with two flounces of tulle hanging longer on the left side, and a bow of wide green satin ribbon knelt upon a white satin prie-dieu, outlined with asparagus fern and decorated on either side with a cluster of valley lilies. The bride's gown was of white tulle, the circular skirts fashioned with two flounces of tulle hanging longer on the left side, and a bow of wide green satin ribbon knelt upon a white satin prie-dieu, outlined with asparagus fern and decorated on either side with a cluster of valley lilies. The bride's gown was of white tulle, the circular skirts fashioned with two flounces of tulle hanging longer on the left side, and a bow of wide green satin ribbon knelt upon a white satin prie-dieu, outlined with asparagus fern and decorated on either side with a cluster of valley lilies.

The beautiful bride was given in marriage by her father, Thomas McGehee Brumby, with whom she descended the stairway, passing through the aisle, and meeting the groom and his best man at the altar. She was radiantly lovely in her bridal robes of ivory satin, the skirt introducing two flounces of rose point and duchess lace, fashioned longer in the back than in front, the upper flounce finished at the top with a row of pearl

THICK, SLIMY TASTE AND SICK HEADACHE

First Trial of Black-Draught Was Convincing, Says Lady, Telling How She Escapes Suffering By Taking It.

Jackson, Miss.—"My first experience with Black-Draught convinced me that it was a good medicine," says Mrs. Ida Kersh, 311 South Congress street, this city, who says she has taken Theford's Black-Draught for about twenty years.

"My trouble," writes Mrs. Kersh, "was sick headache which seemed to be caused by constipation. I used to have a thick, slimy taste in my mouth, and such a tired, bad feeling. This would be followed by headache and sick stomach. I would have to stop my work and go to bed."

"I read about Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found that by taking the Black-Draught in time, I could ward off these sick spells."

"And so far the last twenty years, when I feel the least bad, I take Black-Draught and feel that it has saved me much pain and sickness."

Constipation damps up poisons in the bowels, where they are absorbed into the general system, causing many serious symptoms.

Thousands of letters of praise from users of Theford's Black-Draught, on file at the laboratories where Black-Draught is made, testify to the high esteem in which it is held for the relief of constipation and attendant ills.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

WHITEFOOT HAS ANOTHER FRIGHT.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The careless always will, 'tis clear,
In danger be of sudden fear.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse and Mrs. Whitefoot and Trader the Wood Rat had become thoroughly settled in their home in the little sugar-house in the Green Forest. At first Mr. and Mrs. Whitefoot had rather resented the coming of Trader the Wood Rat, but Trader is a pleasant fellow and a good neighbor, and they had grown to like him. So the three were getting along very nicely. There was a wonderful feeling of security inside that little sugar-house. Once inside they felt absolutely safe. Had not Yowler the Bobcat and Cubby Bear tried to get in and failed?

But, of course, they couldn't stay inside the little sugar-house all the time. More and more they went outside, always ready to run back at the least hint of danger. During the daytime they rarely went out at all. You know they are little night-folk. They love the hours of darkness. But even more they love the hours between daylight and darkness—the hours of dusk. And they love moonlight nights. When there was moonlight they would be out nearly all night.

It happened one moonlight night that Whitefoot had stayed a little farther than usual. For several nights they had not had a single scare any. Whitefoot had grown a little careless. You see, Whitefoot is very little other little folk that he needs to be constantly reminded of things. He needed to be reminded that there was danger lurking all through the Green Forest. So Whitefoot was running about carelessly. Instead of keeping in the Black Shadows he often ran right out in the moonlight spaces, and this was a very foolish thing to do. Mrs. Whitefoot had warned him several times that he shouldn't do it.

"Hoody the Owl will get you if you don't watch out," insisted Mrs. Whitefoot. "You know how he snoops around without making a sound."

"Pooh!" declared Whitefoot. "He hasn't been around here since we've lived over here. Don't worry about me. I can take care of myself. I know what I'm about."

It wasn't five minutes later that Whitefoot ran out into a little patch of moonlight and began running about, hunting for something to eat. He was so intent on what he was doing that he thought of nothing else. What it was that warned him to look back of him all of a sudden he doesn't know to this day. But he did look back and he looked just in time. With a squeal of sheer fright he jumped to one side and dived through a little knot-hole in an old log that happened to be lying there. And as he left the ground in that jump some one else landed on the very spot he had just left. It was Bobby Coon. Bobby had just happened along with nothing in particular on his mind when he caught sight of Whitefoot running about in the moonlight. Now Bobby Coon, like so many other people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, likes a Mouse now and then on his bill-of-fare. If Whitefoot hadn't happened to turn his head just when he did Bobby certainly would have had him. It was a narrow escape—one of the narrowest escapes Whitefoot had had for a long time.

"Hoody the Owl will get you if you don't watch out," insisted Mrs. Whitefoot.

Mrs. Whitefoot had seen it. She had been peeping out from the Black Shadows, and she was too frightened to even squeal a warning. When she saw Whitefoot disappear in that knot-hole she gave a little sigh of thankfulness, and then how she did run for the old sugar-house!

FORESTRY FAIR OPENS AT WAYCROSS TODAY

Waycross, Ga., September 10.—The arrival of demonstration fire detection airplanes from Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., the welcoming of a motorcade of forestry officials and boosters from Atlanta, and the opening of the exhibit booths of forestry concerns from every section of the United States, will mark the opening Wednesday of the first forestry fair in America.

The fair will continue through the remainder of the week, being sponsored by the state forestry department in conjunction with the Waycross and Ware County Chamber of Commerce. Governor L. G. Hardman will deliver the opening address Wednesday morning, speaking on "The Coastal Plains Forests." The speakers on the four-day program include the foremost forestry authorities in America, several of them representing the United States forestry department.

J. S. Elkins, secretary of the Waycross and Ware County Chamber of Commerce, and Charles W. Nait, regional forester, with headquarters in Waycross, announce that full preparations have been made for the fair and that many speakers already have arrived in Waycross. Motion picture cameramen have been sent here to "shoot" the field demonstrations and exhibits.

The general committee on the Forestry fair includes Ralph Brinson, Waycross, chairman; L. F. Eldridge, of Fargo; R. E. Boudier, of Brunswick; Fred B. Merrell, of Albany; J. H. King, of Waycross; Charles W. Nait, of Waycross; W. Y. Musgrove, of Homerville; J. S. Elkins, of Waycross, and A. V. Kennedy, of Waycross.

A special committee from the Waycross and Ware County Chamber of Commerce is composed of Dan Lott, I. W. Odum, H. D. Reed, Jack Williams, Walter A. Seaman, Charles N. Wilson, J. R. Lewis, L. V. Bean, S. Varn, Dr. H. J. Carwell, H. A. Stallings, O. E. Davis, R. C. Ulmer, Herbert Bradshaw, John Hopkins and Stafford Moody.

An entertainment committee representing the civic clubs of Waycross is composed of F. D. Aiken, Carl Jones and M. E. Brinson of the chamber of commerce, Walter Seaman, Dan Lott and John King from the Kiwanis club, and John W. Bennett, Jr., Malcolm Parker and Love Harrell from the Lions club.

B. M. Lufburrow, Georgia state forester, states that the forest fair is the first exposition of its kind ever held in America, and that interest in the event has reached from coast to coast. It is a credit to the state of Georgia, he asserts, and is destined to become a national event.

Waycross was selected as the site for the fair because of its location in the center of the pine forest belt of the southeast, and because of the tremendous success of the forest fire line demonstrations held here last under the auspices of the state forest department and the State Forestry association.

MOTORCADE FORCED TO DETOUR.

Tifton, Ga., September 18.—(AP)—The forestry motorcade which was scheduled to visit Adel, Valdosta, Lakeland and Homerville and leaving Tifton, was forced to turn east from Tifton this morning and go by way of Ocilla and Douglas on account of reports that the road between Valdosta and Waycross was impassable.

A terrific gale swept through this section all last night and many trees are reported down. There was heavy damage to cotton, pecans, peanuts and hay as a result of the wind. So far, no injuries have been reported. No trains have come through from Florida since yesterday.

EMORY STUDENTS BEGIN REGISTERING THURSDAY MORNING

Registration for freshmen at Emory university will begin at the school Thursday as the first official act of the reopening of school for the fall term. Already 222 names are on the advance lists with approved credits from high schools.

It is expected that enrollment at the school this year will exceed slightly that of last year. Registration for upper classes will take place on Tuesday, September 25, and class work will be taken up on the following day.

Beauty Fashions.

A CHIC MODEL FOR A SCHOOL DRESS.

6261. In this attractive style the neck line continues as an opening at the top of a narrow panel which ends in a point below the belt and is outlined by smart side plaits; these and similar plaits at the underarm seem lend fullness to the dress and give freedom in movement. Brown cashmere was chosen for this frock, with trimming of brown and white checked woolen. This style is nice in linen or crepe de chine with the panel, belt and cuffs in a contrasting color, or piped with a contrasting color. Gingham and cotton prints are also desirable for this style. Blue linen and white organdy would be a good combination.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size will require three yards of 27-inch material and 5-8 yard of contrasting material for facing on panel, cuffs and belt. If finished with bias binding.

ATLANTA BUILDING SHOWS INCREASE

Building and engineering contracts were let last month to the amount of $8,452,400 in the state of Georgia, and in Atlanta to the amount of $2,725,000, according to an announcement Tuesday by W. Dodge corporation. The state's total represented increases of 29 per cent over the preceding month and 32 per cent over the total for last August. Atlanta showed a gain of 55 per cent over the total for July of this year and was 3 per cent over the total for August of last year.

Analysis of the state's record showed the following items of importance: $4,072,500, or 48 per cent of all construction, for industrial projects; $2,456,200, or 29 per cent, for residential buildings; $840,700, or 10 per cent, for public buildings; and $332,000, or 4 per cent, for public works and utilities.

Included in the August building record for Atlanta were: $1,492,700, or 55 per cent of the total, for residential buildings; $840,700, or 31 per cent, for public buildings; $171,300, or 6 per cent, for commercial buildings; and $104,400, or 4 per cent, for religious and memorial projects.

ROUND-THE-GLOBE AVIATOR REACHES FIELD AT PARIS

Marseilles, France, September 18. (AP)—George H. Stork, Seattle flier, who is on a trip around the world, landed at the airport here at 7 p. m. tonight. Some anxiety had been caused because he had not been reported since he left Sartouville, near Paris, yesterday. Mr. Stork was in good health. He said he would await the arrival here of spare parts before resuming his voyage.

Georgia Tech To Have One of Strongest Teams in Conference

Dan McGugin Gives Dope On S. C. Teams

Georgia, Vandy, Alabama Also To Be Strong This Year, So Dan Thinks.

Editor's Note: This is one of four dispatches by famous coaches surveying the college football outlook throughout the country. This story has been preceded by dispatches from Zuppke, discussing prospects in the middle west; Roper, the east, and Howard Jones, the far west. These four coaches will write exclusively for this paper during the football season.

BY DAN E. MCGUGIN, Football Coach at Vanderbilt University.

The season has come when hundreds of thousands of young Americans in schools and colleges have the preliminary work to make football teams. As in all things worth while, this calls for hard application, self-denial and capacity for taking pains.

There will be many disappointments by the way. One or more men on every squad will prove unsatisfactory. They will fail to do their best. They will lose that vital thing, precious to a boy, the respect and affection of teammates.

At the end of the season there will be almost innumerable selections of all-American teams. The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance have invited Mr. Roper, coach at Princeton; Mr. Zuppke, University of Illinois; Mr. Jones, University of California; and myself to make a particular study of the teams and the individual players of our respective sections and at the end of the season to agree on an all-American eleven.

To Watch Teams. We are to observe and to inquire from all reliable sources, and to note the progress of teams and the development of players in the work. From the beginning of the season to the end we are to know whether a player is consistently good, or brilliant only at times. The coach who shows any indication of selfishness or whether he forgets himself in the spirit of team play. Even this selection, carefully made, will be imperfect and unjust to some, but it should nevertheless be reasonably just and fair.

This invitation has caused me to abandon the policy I have heretofore adhered to, that of not making any selection for newspapers. It seems to me, however, that it does provide an opportunity to place teams and individual players of the season in a place of consideration.

It is naturally the disposition of every section to think its own the best. It is my observation that the country over has generally the same physical ability. Through the influence of climate and other conditions they may be somewhat different.

Southern Lads Slender. Boys in the middle west are inclined to be muscular, thick of chest and strong of arm. The southern boy is more apt to be slender, thin of face, very often thin of chest, and with the long, steel-like muscles of the pioneer.

The institutions of the north and east have on the average a far greater number of students. The south has not the same intramural activities as other sections, though great progress is being made.

For the most part we perhaps do not have the traditions which make effective team muscle and bone determine the outcome of a hard contest. But there is always at least one man in the south who is a number, who deserve serious consideration for the all-American.

Twenty-Two Schools. There are 22 colleges in the southern intercollegiate conference, beginning with Maryland, and extending down to Tulane University. Numerous other colleges belong to the Southern Collegiate association. A number of the latter have strong teams, but as a rule not on a par with those of the conference.

All these colleges at times have brilliant games and teams. Practically every college in the conference has one or more great players to think about, teams which have won at least one important intercollegiate game. Y. M. I. has defeated Pennsylvania, Georgia Institute and Virginia has won from Yale. The University of Georgia and Georgia Tech have many of the brilliant intercollegiate games to look back upon. Tulane, Florida, Vanderbilt and others have all surprised opponents of other sections of reputed greater strength.

Five head coaches have come into the conference, all men of fine character, experience and ability. These include Laval, South Carolina; Bachman, Florida; Cohen, Louisiana State; Mehre, Georgia; and Butler, Auburn. Only at Clemson is beginning his second year, having achieved much in preparation and organization during the first.

Large Coaching Staffs. Most of the members of the conference have particularly large squads in training and have adequate coaching staffs. It is literally impossible for one man, or two men, to give the necessary individual instruction to a large group.

Coach Wade, Alabama, has Jess Neely and James Haygood. Cooley has obtained Sanders and others, and in the main from three to five competent instructors are engaged with the respective squads.

Most of the colleges have a large number of letter men returning. North Carolina State has 13, University of Virginia 12, Washington and Lee 10 and University of Georgia, Georgia Tech and others are well fortified with veteran material.

Perhaps the strongest teams in the

Be SPOTLIGHT

The Conference Battlefield.
One of football's greatest wars takes place each year in the western conference, where ten universities, with a total enrollment of nearly 80,000 students, fight it out. Ohio State and Michigan have each 13,000 students. Minnesota has around 11,000, with 10,000 at Illinois.

Sluggers Swat 1,001 Homers In Majors

New York, September 18.—(United News.)—The major leagues passed the 1,000 mark in home runs today when five homers brought the total to 1,001.

Twelve days before the close of the major league season there have been 79 more home runs hit than for the complete season last year. There were 922 home runs hit in both leagues last year and 863 in 1926.

The totals for this year, including today's games, follow:

National league..... 538

Rube Ruth leads both leagues with 50 home runs. Ruth is seven days and four home runs behind his 1927 record, when he hit 60 home runs.

conference the last two years have been the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Alabama and Vanderbilt, though this may be the year when the better teams will be found upon the Atlantic seaboard.

Seaboard Leaders. It is probable that the leaders along the Atlantic seaboard will be found among the University of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Maryland, Washington and Lee, North Carolina State, Furman and Virginia Military institute, though Clemson may advance to a place equal to or in advance of these.

Plenty Linemen. Mehre has linemen sufficient to make two teams. I am told, while his group of capable backfield men is specially large, his line is not so good. Ends of this unusual skill do not grow on every bush, as I found when Wakefield and Bonar left Vanderbilt.

Michigan Loses. Michigan has a fine line, but the backfield is not so good. The well-known State ranks as one of the best teams in the west.

Cards Win 5th Straight To Hold Lead

Judge Landis Sees St. Louis Take Easy Victory From Phillies, 4 to 2.

Philadelphia, September 18.—(P.)—The Cardinals cleaned up their series of five games against the Phillies by polishing off the supine home forces by a score of 4 to 2 with little difficulty than the score indicates. This gave the Red Wings a record of five victories and two defeats in competition against the Baker boys this season.

The Cardinals merely protected their lead of two games over the Giants as the club McGraw nosed out the Pirates in the rubber engagement of a three-game series in New York.

Jesse Haines pitched for the Cardinals and held the home team safe at all times, although the score was close to the finish. Ray Benge, Philadelphia recruit, did as well as could be expected, but weakened in the seventh when the Cards bunched him for a run which won. Bob McGraw finished.

Commissioner K. M. Landis sat in a box with John Shille of the Athletics. The commissioner visited Philadelphia to inspect Shille park as a possible world series site.

The Cardinals held their own in the game with the Cubs, the Cardinals will have another open date on Friday, but will meet with a break in the schedule on Saturday. After visiting Brooklyn and Boston the Red Birds will return to the Polo grounds for a single game on September 20, closing the National league season.

GIANTS HOLD PACE WITH CHAMPIONS.

New York, September 18.—(P.)—The Giants held pace with the Cardinals and the Cubs, their western rivals, by defeating Pittsburgh in a hard-fought, 10-inning game here today. The victory gave the Giants a record of five wins and one loss in their 22 games.

The game was a picture duel between Fred Fitzsimmons for New York and Burleigh Grimes and Joe Dawson, of the Pirates. Fitzsimmons finally smothered the jinx which Grimes has had since New York's defeat of Grimes, traded from the Giants, tried for his twenty-fifth victory of the season and his sixth of the year for the New York Giants.

Dawson was ineffective after his relief. Grimes in the ninth and suffered the defeat.

Backed Fitzsimmons with brilliant support. Lindstrom, Jackson and Reese making one great inning play after another.

THE YANKS AGAIN

Huggins' Crew Seems About In—Both the Yanks and A's on Road Until End of Year.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

The "Old Man of the Bases," Mr. Tyrus Raymond Cobb, in announcing his retirement from the game, voiced in a plaintive way that he'd like to get in at least one world's series before he quit.

Mr. Cobb, as everyone knows, occupies the same spot every day on the bench in the Philadelphia Athletics' dugout of the moment and at times this season the A's have been in imminent danger of participating in a world's series.

Yesterday, however, the Yankees won out in one of those fervent, ardent battles such as only youth are emulated by the St. Louis Browns can put up, by the score of 14 to 11, which is indicative of anything but a pitcher's battle.

While this dog-fight was taking place, the Athletics engaged themselves by losing to the Indians in Cleveland, 3 to 2.

As the Yankees had trimmed the Browns on the day previous while the Mackens were idle, that had given Huggins' crew a lead of one game. Yesterday's happening, which left the Yankees two games in front.

End of Season Near.

And now with the close of the season so near that Athletic supporters don't even care to think about it, things are perking up for the Manhattan Maroons.

Of course, there's still a chance for Philadelphia. Everybody on the New York team could have money put in the bank for the Yankees to be so far ahead and a lead such as that at this stage of the game is almost convincing.

The two are rounding up the season and it should be an exciting drive down to the barrier.

If the A's lose once more while the Yankees are winning then they'll be completely out of it. That's the way it goes in the end of the year.

It isn't likely to happen. It seems that the silver-streaked Mr. McGillicuddy isn't going to quite make the grade. And that Ty Cobb must retire without realizing his ambition to play in the end of the year.

For it looks like the Yankees are going to win the pennant. And that Ty Cobb must retire without realizing his ambition to play in the end of the year.

Youngsters To Replace Vets in Net Ranking

Topsy-Turvy Season Causes Upheaval in Tennis World; Only Five Leaders To Remain.

BY F. C. VOSBURGH.

New York, September 18.—(AP)—A topsy-turvy tennis season in which only the play of the French and of Miss Helen Willis was consistent has caused a complete upheaval among the country's so-called "first ten" players.

Only five of the ten men who were placed first by the United States Lawn Tennis association at the end of last season can be expected to hold their places in the ranking for 1928. Filling the vacancies will be a flock of America's younger players on whose shoulders rest the responsibility of eventually winning back the laurels that Cochet, Lacoste & Co., have taken to France.

If the tennis governing body follows the precedent set in the case of Vincent Richards, Big Bill Tilden will be ranked as the first player in 11 years. Eight years ago he topped the list. Richards played as an amateur throughout the last season, and was ranked as the No. 1 ranking instead of the No. 10 ranking he held in 1917.

Plenty Scrimmages Booked for Jackets

Tech Eleven Being Drilled in Passes; Men Look Good in Second Tilt.

BY HERBERT CLARK.

Scrimmages are to be the order of the day out at the playground of Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets from now henceforward. Coach Alexander sent his charges through their second fray Tuesday afternoon on the field at the Flats, concentrating on his conception of the aerial game.

The atmosphere was full of flying ovals as the three squads alternated on the offensive. The men responsible for the fortunes of the White and Gold on the gridiron have done some real work on the passing phase of the game, and have presented to the squad several new plays involving this art.

All these, together with certain modifications of last year's models, have been working to the satisfaction of the powers on North avenue way. Alex had his crew go through a snappy signal drill composed entirely of passing plays in the opening moments of the workouts yesterday as a preliminary to the scrimmage.

The fact that the opposition was of a much more determined character this latter session seemed to have little effect on the ease with which the heavens were tossed and completed. No this edition of the Tornado will be a sure "buff air storm" if they are able to keep up the good work.

Durant, Smith, Schulman and Dunlap were doing the greater part of the churning and did it well. One one have landed in the hands of the wrong party. This misplaced toss was intercepted by a fellow by the name of Alex, who galloped half the length of the field for a counter.

Golf and Golfers

BY WALTER HAGEN
American Professional and British Open Golf Champion.

(Copyright, 1928, by The North American Newspaper Alliance and The Constitution.)

Two major championships remain to be contested in the United States: The woman's national championship to be played next week at Hot Springs, West Virginia, and the Professional Golfers' association championship to be played at the country club of Baltimore, October 1 to 6. Meantime there will be an invitational tournament for 16 specially invited professionals at the national links, Southampton.

The national links, Southampton, is recognized as one of the finest courses in America and this will be the first chance the talent of American professional golf has had an opportunity to play it.

Eager to See Course. I am very eager to see these links, which have so many holes copied from the famous holes on English and Scottish links. The club officials have put up liberal prize money and will entertain us while there so I am looking forward to a good week-end. The play will be 72 holes, medal competition.

The national links were built by Charles B. MacDonald, who for years has been one of the keenest students of golf course construction, which he indulges in as a recreation. He spent a number of years in gaining information upon which the national links were built. I anticipate something very fine and know I will find it at Southampton.

In the professional championship at Baltimore I will be defending my title as professional champion, which I have won for the last four years. I course the boys there so I am looking forward to a good week-end. The play will be 72 holes, medal competition.

Ready to Do Battle. I feel much more like defending the title this year than I did last fall, when I only decided to go to Dallas at the last minute. I was in London at the time trying to complete a deal with the International league baseball club there and I was badly kept.

I had not played any serious golf for weeks but decided at the last minute that it would not be fair to a new champion for me to stay away. I left Rochester on a Friday, arrived in St. Louis Saturday, played a round with friends there Saturday afternoon and then went on to Dallas.

The tournament started Monday and I got to Dallas just in time to play nine holes Sunday afternoon before darkness set in. The next day I won the qualifying medal and I eventually won the championship, but some of the boys were very good to me, for I was not in shape and had some bad days.

Fortunately, the day I met Tommy Armour, I was hot to play and that was the day I needed to be. It goes to show that one can never tell about golf. I have trained for some tournaments and played a lot before the match and then found I had no touch at all when the big event came around.

One of the greatest assets in playing in championships is to be relaxed. I have been criticized at times for being late, but I am never late intentionally, it seems to me it is necessary to get into the habit of being relaxed.

Will Take His Time. Therefore, I will never hurry a shave to save a few minutes, because if I start the day by hurrying my razor over the rough on my chin I will probably continue to hurry all the rest of the day. It is necessary to get into the habit of being relaxed.

In order to have a smooth golf stroke it is necessary to have a smooth mind. I shave with a razor, not with the knife and fork at breakfast. Show me a man who jumps out of bed like a fireman, lathers his face like a sign painter and shaves his whiskers as if he were pushing a motor lawnmower and I will wager when he gets on the first tee he hits the ball before he is ready.

Golfers who realize that one of their greatest faults is a tendency to tighten up, to become tense, should cultivate the art of relaxing for it is possible to relax in the heat of competition on the golf course if one never relaxes upon any occasion.

Birmingham Wins First Game of Series From Memphis, 3-2

Kelly, Wells Pitch Great Ball in Tilt

Bigelow's Smash in Third Inning Helps Barons Push Across All of 3 Runs.

Birmingham, Ala., September 18.—(AP)—The Memphis Chickasaws, second half winners in the Southern association loop, came to Birmingham today and dropped the first game of the championship series to the Birmingham Barons, first half winners, but as Manager "Doc" Prothro of the visitors forecast yesterday, when the game was over, the Barons knew they had been in a battle. The score was 3 to 2.

There might have been a different ending to the first of the five-game series had it not been for the bludgeoning of Bigelow, Barons centerfielder and league-leading hitter. Bigelow clouted one over the right field bleachers, a clean home run, but it was disallowed because of ground rules and he was stopped at third, although Stewart scored. The blow was as clean as ever in hit of Rickwood park and precipitated a row that was participated in freely by Managers Johnny Dobbs and Prothro. It was ended only after "Steamboat" Johnson had laboriously clambered a fence and determined for himself where the ball landed and waved Bigelow back to third.

More Ground Ruling.

Proudly Stuffy Stewart had previously called a lousy double to right field which also ran afoul of ground rules that allowed only one man to score. Wells, who had walked and advanced on Simon's single, crossed the plate safely but Simon was sent back to third. He later scored on Johnson's out and Stewart advanced to third, scoring on Rickwood's drive. Thereafter Herb Kelly played the Barons close and only once in the succeeding six innings did a Birmingham player reach third.

Evenly Matched.

The teams were evenly matched and demonstrated that fact on the playing field. Each got seven hits and five men left on base. Wells struck out three to Kelly's two.

One Up!

The teams play again Saturday and Sunday. A coin will be tossed if necessary Thursday to decide where the fifth game will be played. The total attendance was officially announced at 17,731. Gate receipts were $8,560.50, of which the league will receive ten per cent; other six clubs in the league 45 per cent and the Birmingham and Memphis clubs 22 1/2 per cent each.

ROBY CHANGES FRIDAY NIGHT SHOW PRICES

Radical revision in the scale of admission prices is only one of the many reasons why Promoter S. C. Roby expects a banner crowd at the city auditorium Friday night, when he makes his first attempt to revive interest in prize fighting in Atlanta.

Two Good Fighters.

It seems that Roby has succeeded in that endeavor for his first show at least. For in his 12-round main event he offers no less an attraction than a battle between Clem Johnson, heavyweight champion of Mexico and New York, and a giant negro, of New York and Florida.

More Action.

Plenty of action is in store in the 10-round semi-windup in which Cecil Flowers will be pitted against Batting Kennon. In the other 10-rounder on the bill it will be Kid Mearns vs. Roy Dunn. They are rivals of long standing.

Tickets for the show are on sale at 46 Decatur street.

THE NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

SYNOPSIS.
 Patricia Shane is being entertained in one of New York's night clubs by Fanning Edgarr. She is annoyed by the insistent stare of a hawk-nosed man on the opposite side of the room. In avoiding the stranger's eyes her glance rests upon a good looking young chap seated near the hawklike creature. At the table with the Hawk are a blonde woman looking toward the hawklike creature, and a young fellow who appears to be drunk. The three are discussing Patricia.

INSTALLMENT III.

THE DANCE ENDS.

The blonde woman had said before that she was busy, but now she began to prove it. She proved it, as many women—and also many men—prove things, by beginning to talk. It was quiet talk, however; quiet and crisp.

"She'll do," the woman remarked, speaking aside to the hawk-nosed man. "Pretty tall, maybe, but the other one might have been. Same eyes and same mouth. That's lucky. The birthmark will be a cinch. Easy to fix the nose, too—we got profiles enough. Same funny kind of what-do-you-call-it—you know what I mean—the way she handles herself. Hair perfect. And you don't see gray eyes like that more than six times a year—lashes all the way around. Of course we could fake those, but these are real. All the better. Say," the woman's eyes unlit themselves and glowed, "somebody sure came along and laid a plate of diamonds in our lap tonight. Some luck, Bart—that's all I got to say! It only depends on two things."

"I can think of one," said the hawk-nosed man quickly. "It depends on who she is. If she's Social Register, we're out. Might as well call it a day. If she's a show girl, we've got a chance, because we can buy her. I mean if she's the buying kind. But if she's a working girl—say, wouldn't that be luck! If we got to do then is walk up and cop her and walk away with the jack." He chuckled. "I guess if two thousand girls a year can disappear in New York—oh, it was more than two thousand last year—it won't cause any unforgettable smell if one extra little cutie should fade out this year. That is, providing she's somebody we can touch."

"Queenie, if she's only a working girl from some place out-of-town? Wouldn't that be the out-pajamas? Said the woman coldly. "You forget I said there was two things, Bart. What you just said is one, all right, but there's the other. This kid looks the part and acts the part. She might be the original kid herself, only six years older—which naturally would make it just right. The other thing is something we can't fake. This Jane has got to have a contralto voice—speaking voice. Low pitched and throaty. The other kid's voice was one of the main things about her—remember that. Well, this one's voice has got to be right."

The hawk-nosed man smiled a slow and not entirely pleasant smile. "In just about five minutes," he stated, "she'll be using that voice of hers on me, and if it's contralto or anything near it—"

"If it's what we want, all I got to say is she made a great big fat mistake coming to this dump tonight. And if God's only good to us, Bart—"

From his caved-in position the pallid little man spoke conversationally, his eyes tightly closed. "God's always been good to you, Queenie, and you, too, Bart. What I'm interested in is when things is going to get good for me. That's what I'm interested in."

"Pipe down, you," the woman snarled. "If you get in on this lay at all you'll have us to thank." "That's right," agreed the pallid one cheerfully. "It's about that I had some way to thank for something."

Said the woman: "There's the wind-up of that dance. Get ready to do your stuff, Bart." She eyed him. "What's your line going to be?"

He laughed. "Who, me? How do I know? That question of yours isn't precisely flattering, Queenie." Now he smiled knowingly. He said: "When the time comes when I have to have a line all set before I brace a dame, that's the time I want to be tapped on the dome with a blackjack and laid away among the flowers in Potter's field."

"I got a blackjack with me," said the pallid little man from what appeared to be the profundity of peaceful sleep.

"Well," he retorted, "I give you leave to use it the first time I can't walk up to any dame I pick and get a smile out of her. This one!" He snarled scornfully. "Why, she's a kid. It'll be like taking candy from a baby. Don't make me laugh, Joe. I'll bet you are stewed at that."

"I never bet on a sure thing," remarked Dopey Joe calmly. "It ain't sporting. Me, I know. You, you don't. Maybe I'm stewed and maybe I'm not. Let's leave it that way."

The woman began to laugh. It was a real laugh and her black silk sheath shook and quivered.

"You got brains, Bart," she said. "That kid, Joe, he's got something else. He can't out-think you, but leave it to him to outguess you any day in the week. Which reminds me—since when have you signed up as a big-time shark, Bart Stoman? Even my limited brains can remember a little blonde down at Sheepshead Bay that gave you the air for fair. About two years ago August."

"July," said Dopey Joe, with his eyes still tightly closed. "July seventh. Day we all wound up at Reismiller's with that bird who was trying to sell us oil lands. Remember, Bart? Remember that piddling little roll he had with him? Ninety dollars? Thirty apiece for us—and after all the trouble we went to!"

"That was a dirty deal," the hawk-nosed man agreed.

Said the pallid little man, just opening his eyes: "Crooks like that ought to be sent up the river." At this all three laughed, and heartily. The hawk-nosed man guffawed. The woman snarled and shook. Dopey Joe, without actually moving, seemed to dance in his chair.

Then: "She's sitting down," warned the woman. Patricia and Fanning Edgarr had found their table and were seating themselves. The girl, it could be seen, was tugging at her dress, not only for a quiet and useless but still automatic window shade motion with which the femininity of a knee revealing day was itself perspiring itself, ostrich-wise, that silk stockings calved were not objects of art for public view. The number of inadequate skirts worn out or frayed at the hem by this strange and prehistoric yanking will some day, perhaps, prove a source of fruitful speculation for those eminent philosophers who will come after us and sift the oddities of the human mind.

"There goes Max," announced the pallid little man from behind his appearance tightly closed eyes. And there Max went, bowing and smiling across the floor, winding his way carefully among the ringside tables. Presently Max stood over Fanning Edgarr. Max bowed, whispered. More than anything else, Max smiled. Max's smile had made the Gilded Lily an exceedingly good investment, not only for himself but for his wife, his eldest daughter, her husband, her husband's brother—and also for about 10 snickering waiters, who invested their time against anybody's money. Time goes on, but money doesn't. Time can double money, triple it, quadruple it—but money can't double time.

Max stood over Fanning Edgarr and bowed ingratiatingly. He whispered something Patricia could not hear.

"Who?" Edgarr queried with a sudden scowl.

"Wouldn't give his name," the head waiter confided. "Friend of yours, though, Mr. Edgarr. Used to come in here with you—you know."

Naturally Fanning did not know, but the slight leer with which Max embroidered these two short final words was enough to set him to speculating. His forehead furrowed itself deeply.

"Anybody with him?" the boy asked.

"No, sir—that is, he didn't bring anybody in with him. Says he's got to see you."

"But why on earth—?"

"That's what I asked him, sir, but he wouldn't say, sir. All he'd say was, 'You tell my friend I'll be out front.'"

Young Edgarr turned helplessly to Patricia.

"I suppose I'd better go out," he said uncertainly. "I can't imagine who it is, but I suppose I'd better go. I'll only be a minute—just see what he wants and let him. He rose to his feet. "Do you mind?" he asked.

"Not a bit," said Patricia. Nor did she know as Fanning was concerned, it didn't much matter whether he stayed or went or turned somersaults. He was a nice boy in most ways and mostly he had nice friends. But Patricia knew he had a few funny friends, too. Without particular interest she remarked to herself that this mystic person out front was most likely one of the funny ones. Somebody who wanted to borrow money, or somebody who wanted to crash a party, or somebody who wanted a bootlegger's telephone number, or else somebody just simply tight enough to want to rout out Fanning for no reason at all.

"Fiddle along," she said, and Fanning did.

New York, September 18.—(AP)—An early advance on the storm news was followed by sharp declines in the cotton market today, after realizing and southern selling, accompanied by talk of an easing spot basis. December broke from 17.50 to 17.40 and then fell to 17.30, the general market closing easy at net declines of 15 to 21 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 11 to 15 points. Active months soon showed net gains of 20 to 25 points on covering, combined with trade and commission house buying on reports of heavy rains in the south, but indications of a heavy rain in the south would work northward out of the belt, and prospects for clearing weather tomorrow, brought in selling on the futures. Business tapered off during the middle of the day, and the market's response to the storm news seemed to dissipate recent buyers, and the late decline was accompanied by reports of an easier spot basis in the south.

Selling of October.

There also was a little selling of October which some traders thought might possibly be against pending shipments from the south. October broke to 17.40 and March to 17.32 in late trading. Closing prices were the lowest of the day on all positions.

Private cables reported London and Bombay buying as well as covering in the Liverpool market influenced by the rains in the eastern belt, of also an improved inquiry for cotton cloth from South America and Africa, but that yarns were in limited demand. Exports today, 44,029 bales, making 687,613 so far this season. Port receipts 85,181. United States port stocks 691,482.

COTTON IS LOWER AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, September 18.—(AP)—News that the tropical storm had recurred away from the cotton belt, coupled with liquidation and hedge selling, sent cotton prices down here today. The close was easy at the day's bottom prices, which showed a net loss of 15 to 23 points.

Liverpool was 6 to 10 points better than day, and first trades here showed gains of 5 to 8 points. Prices advanced on reports of heavy rains in the eastern belt in the path of the storm, October rising to 17.10, December to 17.18 and January to 17.15—14 to 20 points above the previous close.

When the weather map was posted, showing the storm had recurred to the northeast away from the belt, recent buyers liquidated and more or less hedge selling developed. Before the offerings were absorbed October traded down to 16.89, December to 16.99 and January to 17.00—15 to 21 points below the early highs and 1 to 3 points under the previous close.

The market ruled steady for a time and rallied 8 to 10 points, but turned easy in late trading on a renewal of liquidation and hedge selling and made new lows. October closed at 16.70, December at 16.79 and January at 16.83—32 to 40 points below the highs.

Port receipts 85,481; for week 204,001; for season 340,739; last season 1,230,503. Exports 44,029 for week 320,323; for season 655,538; last season 729,603. Port stocks 697,323; last season 1,400,644. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 61,729; last year 72,255. Spot sales at southern markets 50,309; last year 42,768.

Sugar.

New York, September 18.—Raw sugar was quiet today, as buyers limited to hold off waiting to the action of the futures market. The underlying market for sugar was offered at discounts of 1-32 of a cent, or on a basis of 3.30 for spot, but without attracting buyers.

Reports that damage to the sugar crop in Porto Rico from the recent hurricane was not as large as at first reported, seemed responsible for increased selling in the futures. Prices were easier throughout the session, closing with net losses of 4 to 6 points. The market opened 1 to 3 points lower under liquidation and trade selling, influenced by the disappearance of the London market, and after holding steady for a time covering showed renewed interest in the spot market also may have tended to restrict future buying and seemed to promote increased hedge selling. Approximate sales 45,130 tons. September closed 2.07; December 2.10; January 2.10; March 2.23; May 2.30; July 2.36; September 1928 2.44.

Refined was unchanged at 5.40 for fine granulated.

Cottonseed Oil.

New Orleans, September 18.—The market for cotton oil futures was easier today in sympathy with a weak and easier cotton prices, although there were damage to the crop in the eastern belt. Prime summer yellow oil closed at 8.80, down 3 points, and prime crude closed at 7.57 to 8.00. Futures closed steady. September 8.85; October 8.90; December 8.95; January 9.01; March 9.13.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

THE HARD TIMES THAT FOLLOWED THE FINANCIAL PANIC OF 1893 LED TO ANOTHER CONFLICT BETWEEN CAPITAL AND LABOR. IN 1894, 4,000 WORKMEN IN THE CAR SHOPS OF THE PULLMAN COMPANY NEAR CHICAGO WENT ON STRIKE WHEN THEIR PAY WAS REDUCED. THE AMERICAN RAILWAY UNION, HEADED BY EUGENE V. DEBS, CALLED A "SYMPATHY STRIKE" AND FORBADE ITS MEMBERS TO HANDLE PULLMAN CARS.

DEBS BEGGED THE STRIKERS TO REFRAIN FROM VIOLENCE AND THE DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY, BUT THEY COULD NOT BE RESTRAINED. MOST OF THE RAILWAYS LEADING INTO CHICAGO WERE OBSTRUCTED AND CARS AND BUILDINGS BURNED IN DEFIANCE OF THE POLICE AND MILITIA.

The Great Pullman Strike of 1894.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

THE FEDERAL COURT HAS ISSUED AN INJUNCTION FORBIDDING THE STRIKERS TO RESORT TO VIOLENCE OR BLOCK THE PROMPT TRANSMISSION OF THE UNITED STATES MAILS. IT WAS NOT LONG BEFORE THE POSTMASTER AT CHICAGO INFORMED THE GOVERNMENT THAT THE CARRYING OF THE MAILS WAS BEING INTERFERED WITH.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AT ONCE ORDERED A BODY OF "REGULARS" TO CHICAGO, AND IN A PROCLAMATION ORDERED THE RIOTERS TO DISPERSE. DEBS WAS ARRESTED FOR DISOBEYING THE INJUNCTION. THIS DETERMINED INTERFERENCE ON THE PART OF THE GOVERNMENT BROUGHT THE DISORDERS TO AN ABRUPT END.
